The thirtieth annual New York State Tax Expenditure Report has been prepared by the Department of Taxation and Finance and the Division of the Budget and is submitted in accordance with the provisions of Section 181 of the Executive Law.¹ The Executive Law defines tax expenditures as “features of the Tax Law that by exemption, exclusion, deduction, allowance, credit, preferential tax rate, deferral, or other statutory device, reduce the amount of taxpayers’ liabilities to the State by providing either economic incentives or tax relief to particular classes of persons or entities, to achieve a public purpose.”

As required by statute, the Report includes:

- An enumeration of the tax expenditures associated with the:
 - Personal Income Tax (Article 22 of the Tax Law)
 - Corporate Franchise Tax (Article 9-A of the Tax Law)
 - Insurance Tax (Article 33 of the Tax Law)
 - Corporation and Utility Taxes (Article 9 of the Tax Law)
 - Sales and Compensating Use Tax (Article 28 of the Tax Law)
 - Petroleum Business Tax (Article 13-A of the Tax Law)
 - Real Estate Transfer Tax (Article 31 of the Tax Law);
- The provisions of law authorizing the tax expenditures, their effective dates, and where applicable, the date that such tax expenditures expire or are reduced;
- Estimates (if reliable data are available) of the costs of the tax expenditures for the current taxable or calendar year and the five preceding years;
- An analysis of tax expenditure proposals included in the Governor’s 2023-24 Executive Budget; and
- Cautionary or advisory notes regarding the use of the Report and data limitations.

¹ Section 181 of the Executive Law provides that any information relating to tax expenditures furnished by the Commissioner of Taxation and Finance be furnished in accordance with the secrecy provisions of the Tax Law.

As provided in prior years, the report also includes information that summarizes:

- Tax expenditures that appear in more than one Article of the Tax Law, i.e., “Cross-Article Tax Expenditures”; and
- State legislation enacted in recent years that resulted in the addition, deletion, or modification of various tax expenditure provisions.

The report also includes the following additional information:

- A glossary of terms used in this report.

As defined by the Executive Law,² tax expenditures in this report are defined as “features of the Tax Law that by exemption, exclusion, deduction, allowance, credit, preferential tax rate, deferral, or other statutory device, reduce the amount of taxpayers’ liabilities to the State by providing either economic incentives or tax relief to particular classes of persons or entities, to achieve a public purpose.” This definition is less subjective than an approach that defines tax expenditures by first defining a normal tax structure because it avoids judgments about what constitutes “normal.”

This report does not purport to offer an official list of tax expenditures. Rather, it describes as many tax expenditures as possible and provides revenue estimates for as many provisions as can be isolated and measured. Where applicable data is available, tax expenditure estimates generally cover five historical years. Forecasted estimates project the cost of a tax expenditure as reflected in the Tax Law as it was in effect on January 1, 2023. The forecasted estimates do not reflect changes proposed in the Executive Budget. A description of the Executive Budget Tax Expenditure proposals is included in a separate section of this report. As a result of new or improved information, the estimates may differ from those published in previous reports. The estimates in the report do not reflect the impact of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) surcharge, imposed on businesses operating in the Metropolitan Transportation Commuter District (MCTD).

The “cost of a tax expenditure,”³ or the tax expenditure revenue estimate, is the amount by which a tax expenditure reduces taxpayers’ liability to the State for a taxable year or on a calendar year basis if a taxable year basis is not appropriate. The reduction in taxpayer liability is the difference between tax liability under the current Tax Law and tax liability if the particular expenditure did not exist. In the case of certain tax credits, the cost also includes amounts refunded to taxpayers. It is important to acknowledge that each tax expenditure estimate is measured separately and independently of other tax provisions (i.e., other taxes are held constant) and no changes in taxpayer behavior are assumed. Thus, the tax expenditure estimates provided in this report are not equivalent to the impact on the State’s Financial Plan if the expenditure were repealed or modified. In addition, since the expenditure estimates are measured separately and independently, individual tax expenditures cannot be summed.

Federal Exclusions

The personal income (Article 22), corporate franchise (Article 9-A), and insurance (Article 33) taxes are all based, to some extent, on the Federal tax structure. There are provisions in Federal law that reduce the base subject to New York tax because the exclusion flows through to New York law. For example, employer contributions for medical insurance and care are excluded from Federal adjusted gross income. This exclusion flows through to New York which uses Federal adjusted gross income as a starting point for determining New York income. In most cases, New York policymakers have opted to conform to the Federal base for these taxes.⁴ Conformity eases administration of the Tax Law while at the same time promoting taxpayer compliance. These items do not constitute tax expenditures in the same sense as provisions specifically designed by New York policymakers to promote economic development or to provide specific tax relief.

Reliability of the Estimates

Estimates of the cost of tax expenditures have different levels of reliability based on the accuracy of both the data and the estimation procedure.

- For all of the taxes, with the exception of the Sales and Compensating Use Tax, the Department of Taxation and Finance assigns the highest category of reliability, Level 1, to estimates based on information from actual tax returns that were verified for accuracy.
- It assigns Level 2 to estimates based on data files containing unverified or incomplete information from actual tax returns. Neither of these return data sources is augmented with audit information.

USE OF THIS REPORT AND DATA LIMITATIONS

- In Level 3 estimates, average marginal tax rates are applied to aggregate data. This sometimes includes Federal tax return data from the Internal Revenue Service's Statistics of Income.
- Level 4 estimates are based on national tax expenditure estimates made by the Federal Joint Committee on Taxation (JCT) or the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) or are estimates derived from non-tax data sources. Estimates for most of the Sales Tax expenditures are derived from non-tax data sources. Therefore, a somewhat different reliability scheme is employed with all estimates given the fourth level of reliability. Within this fourth level, the report further categorizes estimates based on the accuracy and suitability of the data sources. Category A estimates use both New York State and industry-specific data. Category B estimates use either New York-specific data that is not industry specific or national data derived from direct industry information such as industry associations. Category C estimates use data other than state or industry-specific data.
- The last level of estimates, Level 5, includes those items for which no reliable data source currently exists.

In some cases, the reliability of estimates can change from year to year. This is especially the case for base year and forecast estimates versus historical estimates. For example, provisions previously estimated with either less reliable tax return data or Federal tax information might become Level 1 (highest reliability) if added directly to tax returns and verified for accuracy. This could cause current and projected estimates to differ from historical estimates.

Regardless of data source, the reliability of estimates for the budget year is of distinctly lower quality than that of the historical numbers. The hazards of forecasting generally are exacerbated when point estimates of the value of particular provisions of law are involved. Changes in taxpayer behavior, business organization, and other factors can all have profound implications for the estimates of particular provisions in the budget year.

USE OF THIS REPORT AND DATA LIMITATIONS

State legislation enacted in recent years has resulted in the addition, deletion, or modification of various provisions in the report this year. The changes are as follows:

Additions:

- Effective September 1, 2022, diapers intended for human use are exempt from sales tax.
- As of June 1, 2022, a credit or refund is allowed to a lessee or lessor under certain conditions for sales taxes paid on commercial motor vehicle leases with terminal rental adjustment clauses (TRAC leases).
- Effective September 1, 2022, the use of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product by tugboats and towboats is exempt from the petroleum business tax.
- A new, refundable COVID-19 capital costs tax credit is available to small businesses that incurred costs to comply with public health or other emergency orders or regulations related to the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Taxpayers may claim a refundable credit equal to 50 percent of the costs paid to convert grade no. 6 heating oil usage to biodiesel fuel or a geothermal system.
- A new, refundable farm employer overtime credit is available once the Department of Agriculture and Markets institutes a reduction in the overtime threshold.

RECENT LEGISLATION THAT HAS AFFECTED TAX EXPENDITURES

- Business entities currently in the restaurant return-to-work program are eligible for an additional restaurant return-to-work credit equal to $5,000 per each net employee increase between 11 and 20 employees, provided the jobs continue to exist as of March 31, 2022.
- For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2022, Article 9-A and Article 22 taxpayers engaged in commercial cannabis activity are allowed a new subtraction for expenses related to adult-use cannabis products that are disallowed federally under IRC section 280E.
- A one-time payment based on the Empire State Child Credit (ESCC) was issued to taxpayers who timely filed their personal income tax returns and were allowed the credit in tax year 2021. The payment ranged from 25 percent to 100 percent of the 2021 credits value depending on income.
- A one-time payment based on earned income tax credit (EITC) and enhanced EITC was issued to resident taxpayers who timely filed their personal income tax returns and were allowed the EITC/enhanced EITC in tax year 2021. The amount of the payment was equal to 25 percent of their state EITC/enhanced EITC allowed in tax year 2021.

USE OF THIS REPORT AND DATA LIMITATIONS

- Income eligible resident taxpayers who own and reside in property receiving basic or enhanced STAR are eligible for a one-time payment of the Homeowner Tax Rebate Credit in 2022. The credit is a percentage of the property's Basic or Enhanced STAR savings, whichever applies, for the 2021-2022 school year and varies based on a progressive income-based schedule.
- For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2023, and before January 1, 2028, a new refundable Empire State digital gaming media production credit administered by Empire State Development is available. The credit equals 25 percent of digital gaming media production costs in the MCTD and 35 percent of such costs outside the MCTD.
- A new, nonrefundable credit is available for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2022, for the installation of a qualified geothermal energy system. The credit equals 25 percent of qualifying costs and is capped at $5,000.

Modifications:

- The sales tax exemption for certain vending machine sales of candy, juice, soft drinks and bottled water was extended through May 31, 2023.
- The investment tax credit rate is enhanced to twenty percent of the investment credit base for eligible farmers for property principally used by the farmer in the production of goods by farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, or viticulture. The enhancement applies to property placed in service on or after April 1, 2022.
- For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2022, and before January 1, 2026, the amount of the existing farm workforce retention credit was doubled from $600 to $1,200 per eligible farm employee.
- The statewide limitation for the allocation of the aggregate dollar amount of the low-income housing credit was increased by an additional $7 million for each of the next five years, resulting in the Department of Housing and Community Renewal allocating $15 million in credits each year.
- The expiration date of the clean heating fuel tax credit was extended an additional three years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2026.
- The expiration date of the New York youth jobs program tax credit was extended an additional five years to taxable years beginning before December 31, 2027.
- The expiration date of the empire state apprenticeship tax credit was extended an additional five years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2028.

- The expiration date of the workers with disabilities tax credit was extended an additional three years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2026.
- The New York City musical and theatrical production tax credit was expanded by extending the $3 million cap to productions who have their first performance prior to January 1, 2023, and doubling the dollar cap of the program from $100 million to $200 million.
- The expiration date for the hire-a-vet tax credit was extended an additional three years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2026. Eligibility for the credit is expanded and the credit amount is increased to $20,000 for disabled full-time veterans and $15,000 for all other full-time veterans and half that credit amount for part-time employees.

- The expiration date of the credit for companies who provide transportation to individuals with disabilities was extended an additional six years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2029. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2023, an enhanced credit of $15,000 per electric vehicle is available. All other vehicles continue to generate a $10,000 per vehicle credit.
- The expiration date of the Empire State film production and post-production credits were extended an additional three years to taxable years beginning before January 1, 2030. Also, after January 1, 2023, recipients must contribute $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 percent of the credit to the Empire State Entertainment Diversity Job Training Development Fund.
- The Brownfield Cleanup Program is expanded by providing new categories of eligibility for tangible property credits, establishing a program fee to pay for Department of Environmental Conservation staff, and extending the site preparation and groundwater remediation credits for sites that may have been unable to complete work due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The sunset date of the program is also extended by ten years, until December 31, 2032.
- For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2022 the small business income modification under the personal income tax is increased from 5 percent to 15 percent. In addition, the definition of "small business" is expanded to include non-farm LLCs, partnerships, and S-corporations with less than $1.5 million in NY source gross income.

This section provides revenue estimates of tax expenditures for the 2023 New York State Personal Income Tax. Tax expenditures are first estimated for the 2020 tax year (the latest year for which historical tax data are available) and then projected to the 2023 tax year. This section also provides historical estimates from 2016 through 2020 for comparison. Table 1 lists the income tax provisions for which estimates exist, and the estimates themselves. To provide some perspective, it also shows total Personal Income Tax liability for the 2020 tax year. The data used to generate the estimates do not include late filed returns, audited returns, or fiduciary returns because no contemporaneous data exist to make the estimates.

Description of Tax

The computation of the New York State Personal Income Tax starts with the Federal definition of adjusted gross income as included in the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). The IRC permits certain exclusions and adjustments in arriving at Federal adjusted gross income. New York allows several subtraction modifications and requires certain addition modifications in arriving at New York adjusted gross income (NYAGI). Taxpayers can then reduce their NYAGI by subtracting the higher of the New York standard deduction or New York itemized deductions. New York itemized deductions generally conform to Federal itemized deductions as they existed prior to enactment of Public Law 115-97; however, certain modifications, such as an add-back for income taxes, apply. In addition, an overall New York State deduction limitation applies to upper-income taxpayers. New York taxpayers may also subtract from NYAGI a $1,000 exemption for each dependent, not including the taxpayer and spouse. After computing taxable income, taxpayers apply a marginal tax rate schedule to compute their tax before credit amount. Eligible refundable and/or nonrefundable credits are then subtracted to determine final New York liability. The chart below shows the computation from FAGI to final New York liability.

Major features of the New York State income tax rates since 2012 are as follows:

- In 2012, the top rate was 8.82 percent on taxable incomes over $1,000,000 for single individuals, $1,500,000 for head of household, and $2,000,000 for married couples filing jointly.
- For tax years 2013 through 2017, the tax brackets were indexed by a cost of living percentage adjustment. Tax bracket values are no longer indexed after 2017.
- For tax years 2018 through 2023, a rate reduction will be phased in for middle-class taxpayers. Fully phased in, taxpayers with taxable incomes between $13,900 and $80,650 ($27,900 and $161,550 for joint filers) will see their rates reduced to 5.50 percent and those with taxable incomes between $80,650 and $215,400 ($161,5000 and $323,200 for joint filers) will see their rates reduced to 6.00 percent.
- For tax years 2021 through 2027, the top 8.82 marginal tax rate is replaced with three new rates and brackets as follows:
 - 9.65 percent on income between $1,077,550 and $5 million ($2,155,350 and $5 million for joint filers),
 - 10.30 percent on income between $5 million and $25 million (all filers) and,
 - 10.90 percent on income over $25 million (all filers)
- For tax years 2028 and after, the top rate reverts to 8.82 percent on income over $1,077,550 ($2,155,350 for joint filers).
- If New York adjusted gross income exceeds $107,650, then taxpayers must also compute a supplemental tax that recaptures the tax benefit that results from income being taxed at less than the top marginal rate.
- Taxpayers may then subtract certain credits in arriving at their actual tax liability.

Many of the effective dates for the income tax items occurred in 1960. The State Personal Income Tax was originally enacted in 1919, but the present system of Federal conformity with respect to income and deductions did not begin until 1960. Therefore, the report uses 1960 as the effective date for the provisions existing since the reorganization of the State's income tax. Many provisions have also been amended since their enactment; however, this report does not provide a detailed legislative history of each item covering the entire intervening time frame.

The descriptive paragraph on each income tax expenditure summarizes the provision as it appears in the Tax Law in effect as of January 1, 2023. It also includes any differences applicable between the 2020 and 2023 tax years. The listing does not include provisions repealed or sunsetted prior to 2023. Also, only tax credits specific to the Personal Income Tax are described here. Descriptions of tax credits available under multiple tax articles are contained in the Cross-Article Tax Credits section of the report.

Data Sources

The major sources of data used in this section include:

- 2020 Personal Income Tax Population Study File — A data file based on 11.0 million Personal Income Tax returns filed with the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance. The file includes micro data pertaining to full-year resident, part-year resident, and nonresident tax returns filed in 2021 for tax year 2020. The file represents the latest settled information as processed by the Department's tax return system and is verified to ensure accuracy and reliability. This data is used in conjunction with a Personal Income Tax simulation model, a set of complex computer programs which simulate the various features of the Tax Law and variations thereof for the years being estimated.
- 2020 Federal Statistics of Income (SOI) — An annual statistical report produced by the U.S. Treasury Department. It contains Internal Revenue Service data collected from the Federal tax returns filed by New York residents. Verification of the data for accuracy ensures high data quality. The SOI sample of New York taxpayers contains 29,000 unweighted returns.

Methodology

For estimating tax expenditures in 2023, components of income, modifications, and itemized deductions on the 2020 population return file are extrapolated to 2023 levels using growth assumptions based on the economic forecast provided by the New York State Division of the Budget during December 2022. This data file is then used with the Personal Income Tax model revised to simulate 2023 tax law.

Tax expenditures with values of less than $0.1 million are indicated with an asterisk.

Impact of the 2017 Federal Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) on New York Personal Income Tax Expenditures

Based on the federal changes to the treatment of alimony, moving expenses and reimbursements for moving expenses, New York has amended Tax Law regarding the calculation of NYAGI for tax year 2019 and after. Regarding moving expenses, the TCJA suspended the deduction for tax years 2019-2026 for all moving expenses except for members of the Armed Forces (or their spouse or dependents) on active duty that move pursuant to military order. In response, New York amended Tax Law to continue to allow the deduction as it existed prior to 2019 by providing for a NY subtraction from federal AGI (FAGI) in arriving at NYAGI. The TCJA also required that qualified moving expense reimbursements be included in gross income and wages for tax years 2018-2026 except for members of the Armed Forces on active duty that move pursuant to military order. New York amended Tax Law to continue pre-2019 treatment by allowing this amount to be excluded from NYAGI.

The TCJA also changed the federal treatment of alimony and separate maintenance payments made pursuant to alimony or separate maintenance agreements executed after December 31, 2019 or executed before 2020 but modified after December 31, 2019. Under these changes, payments made are no longer deductible by the payor and payments received are no longer included in the recipient's income for federal tax purposes. Subsequent changes to New York Tax Law maintained the previous treatment by decoupling from the federal rules and requiring a subtraction modification for payments made by the payor and the addition of payments received to NYAGI by the recipient.

The decoupling from the federal changes have resulted in the creation of a new tax expenditure at the State level for the subtraction of moving expenses/moving expense reimbursements.

Federal Exclusions from Income

In addition to the tax expenditures which are authorized in New York Tax Law, there are numerous Federal "flow through" tax expenditure provisions which impact the New York State Personal Income Tax. This tax begins with a definition of income which is largely derived from provisions of the Federal Internal Revenue Code. As a result of this "coupling" of State definitions of income base to Federal definitions, exclusions or deductions from income at the Federal level become exclusions or deductions at the State level. Therefore, these provisions automatically become tax expenditures at the State level.

Data Source: PIT Simulation Model

24. Itemized Deductions

Taxpayers may itemize deductions on their State returns irrespective of actions taken on their Federal returns.

New York itemized deductions are freestanding and represent Federal law as it existed for Tax Year 2017. Thus, the citations below reference the Internal Revenue Code prior to the enactment of P.L. 115-97. They are authorized in New York Tax Law, Article 22, Section 615. New York limits the availability of itemized deductions for certain high-income taxpayers. The percentage of disallowed deductions varies according to the taxpayer's NYAGI and filing status. Itemized deductions for a single taxpayer with NYAGI in excess of $100,000 are reduced by up to 25 percent. This reduction also applies to married taxpayers filing jointly with NYAGI in excess of $200,000 and heads of household with NYAGI exceeding $250,000. For all taxpayers with NYAGI above $475,000, itemized deductions are reduced by up to an additional 25 percent, equaling 50 percent for all taxpayers with NYAGI above $525,000. Beginning in tax year 2009 and after, the New York itemized deduction limitation has been revised to further limit a taxpayer's New York itemized deduction. If a taxpayer's NYAGI is more than $1,000,000, but not more than $10 million, the New York itemized deduction is limited to 50 percent of the federal itemized deduction for charitable contributions. For tax years beginning after 2012, if an individual's NYAGI is more than $10 million, the itemized deduction is limited to 25 percent of the federal itemized deduction for charitable contributions. All other federal itemized deductions are reduced to zero.

The Federal itemized deduction limitation that was in effect prior to enactment of P.L. 115-97 further reduces the value of the deductions.

Credits are amounts which may be subtracted from the individual’s computed State tax liability. Improvements in data sources and methodology allow the reporting of credit claims by New York adjusted gross income class for many of the largest income tax credits for tax year 2015. Furthermore, the nonrefundable credit amounts reported for 2015 are credit “used” to reduce liability for the tax year. For tax years beginning in 2010 and ending after tax year 2012, taxpayers were required to defer the use and refund of certain tax credits if they exceed $2 million in aggregate. See Table 2 for a list of affected tax credits. The credits described below are specific to the Personal Income Tax. Descriptions of other tax credits that are available under the Personal Income Tax as well as other tax articles are contained in the Cross-Article Tax Credits section of the report.

The 2014-15 Enacted Budget contained the most significant reform of the State’s corporate tax system since the 1940s. The new structure modernized and streamlined the tax code, made numerous simplifications, created clarity and certainty, and addressed the most common areas of dispute between taxpayers and the Tax Department.

The biggest change was the merger of the Article 32 Bank Tax into the Article 9-A Corporate Franchise Tax. Prior to reform, New York taxed banks and other financial corporations under separate tax articles respectively. Merging the Bank Tax with the Corporate Franchise Tax reflects the modern landscape of New York’s leading industry. Corporate reform also recognized the shift to a service and knowledge-based economy by adopting a comprehensive market state tax approach. Certain other corporations (public utilities and insurance companies) continue to pay tax under other articles of the Tax Law.

This section of the report lists 94 separate tax expenditures for the Corporation Franchise Tax on general business corporations and banks. This year’s report contains the fifth year of data for the new structure – tax year 2019. There are no estimates for tax years prior to 2015 because either the provisions did not previously exist or the changes under reform were of such significance that a historical estimate would be inappropriate. Pre-reform descriptions of Articles 9-A and 32 and historical estimates of the tax expenditures for pre-reform tax years (prior to 2015) are reported in Appendices A and B in the FY 2020 Tax Expenditure Report. The list of tax expenditures is based on the Tax Law as of January 1, 2023. Table 2 summarizes the tax expenditure estimates and includes total Article 9-A corporate franchise tax liability for the 2019 tax year to provide a benchmark for the tax expenditure estimates.

Description of Tax

The Corporate Franchise Tax has three separate bases. The business income base is the primary tax base, while the business capital and fixed dollar minimum tax bases are alternatives. Corporations pay the highest tax computed on these bases less applicable credits, but generally not less than the fixed dollar amount.

The computation of the tax on business income begins with Federal taxable income (FTI) for U.S. corporations (including domestic banks) or effectively connected income (ECI), with treaty benefits added back, for alien (non-U.S.) corporations. Taxpayers then make several state specific modifications to arrive at entire net income (ENI). Many of these modifications are the tax expenditures included in this section. Investment income and other exempt income are then subtracted from ENI, resulting in business income (BI). Taxpayers use a single receipts factor with market-based sourcing rules to apportion BI to New York State.

The following table provides the tax rate schedule as it applies to the BI base:

Type of Business	Tax Year 2015	Tax Year 2016	Tax Year 2017	Tax Years 2018 – 2020	Tax Years 2021 – 2023	Tax Year 2024 and Thereafter
Qualified New York Manufacturers	0.0%	0.0%	0.0%	0.0%	0.0%	0.0%
Qualified Emerging Technology Companies (QETCs)	5.7%	5.5%	5.5%	4.875%	4.875%	4.875%
Small Businesses ¹	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%
Taxpayers with Business Income Base of More Than $5 Million	7.1%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	7.25%	6.5%
Remaining Taxpayers	7.1%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%	6.5%

¹ For the 2015 tax year, graduated rates apply to small businesses with BI over $290,000 but below $390,000. A flat 6.5% rate applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2016.

The tax on business capital starts with the taxpayer’s total assets reduced by its liabilities to arrive at total capital before apportionment. Taxpayers then subtract out investment capital as only business capital is subject to tax. Taxpayers multiply business capital by the business apportionment factor to determine the apportioned business capital base. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2021, qualified New York manufacturers, QETCs, cooperative housing corporations, and small business taxpayers are exempt from the capital base tax. The tax is capped at $5 million for remaining taxpayers subject to the base.

The capital base that was set to expire in tax year 2021 has been temporarily reinstated through tax year 2023. The following rate schedule applies to the capital base:

Type of Business	Tax Year 2015	Tax Year 2016	Tax Year 2017	Tax Year 2018	Tax Year 2019	Tax Year 2020	Tax Years 2021 - 2023	Tax Year 2024 and Thereafter
Qualified New York Manufacturers & QETCs	0.132%	0.106%	0.085%	0.056%	0.038%	0.019%	0%	0%
Cooperative Housing Corporations	0.04%	0.04%	0.04%	0.04%	0.04%	0.025%	0%	0%
Small Businesses	0.15%	0.125%	0.100%	0.075%	0.050%	0.025%	0%	0%
Remaining Taxpayers	0.15%	0.125%	0.100%	0.075%	0.050%	0.025%	0.1875%	0%

The fixed dollar minimum (FDM) tax ranges from $25 to $200,000 depending on the taxpayer’s amount of New York receipts for the taxable year. Manufacturers, QETCs, non-captive real estate trusts (REIs), non-captive regulated investment companies (RICs) are subject to lower amounts.

Data Sources and Methodology

In 2014, New York enacted comprehensive corporate tax reform, which took effect for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2015. Given the significant changes to the tax structure, all of the individual expenditures listed in this section are considered effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2015, even if they existed in years before reform.

Certain Federal tax expenditure provisions “flow through” and impact the New York Corporate Franchise Tax. The tax begins with definitions of income that are derived from provisions of the Federal Internal Revenue Code. As a result of this “coupling” of State definitions of the income base to Federal definitions, exclusions or deductions from income at the Federal level become exclusions or deductions at the State level. Therefore, these provisions automatically become tax expenditures at the State level. The U.S. Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation (JCT) publishes an annual report (Estimates of Federal Tax Expenditures) that estimates Federal tax expenditure items. Many items generally flow through to New York, but since state-level data for Federal exclusion or deduction items are not available, state-specific estimates are not possible. Furthermore, it should be noted that New York does not conform to all Federal tax expenditure provisions. States can decide to not follow (or ‘decouple’ from) Federal provisions. For example, in 2003 New York decoupled from Federal bonus depreciation provisions under IRC Sec. 168(k) ⁴

⁴ Several provisions of the TCJA limited the amount of allowable deductions or exclusions at the federal level. New York did not decouple from these changes, so their impact would be reflected in a larger taxable income starting point for New York State purposes. New York Modifications to Entire Net Income

In computing New York Business Income, Article 9-A allows certain modifications to entire net income (ENI).

15. Deduction for Investment Income

Citation: Section 208(6) and Section 208(8)

Effective Date: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2015

Description: A taxpayer may deduct income, including capital gains in excess of capital losses, from investment capital in determining business income.

Investment capital is defined as investments in stocks that:

1. satisfy the definition of a capital asset under Section 1221 of the IRC at all times the taxpayer owned such stock during the taxable year;
2. are held by the taxpayer for investment for more than one year;
3. the dispositions of which are, or would be, treated by the taxpayer as generating long-term capital gains or losses under the IRC;
4. for stocks acquired on or after January 1, 2015, at any time after the close of the day in which they are acquired, have never been held for sale to customers in the regular course of business; and
5. before the close of the day on which the stock was acquired, are clearly identified in the taxpayer's records as stock held for investment in the same manner as required under IRC Section 1236(a)(1) for the stock of a dealer in securities to be eligible for capital gain treatment (whether or not the taxpayer is in fact a dealer of securities).

In addition, investment capital includes debt and other securities the income of which cannot be apportioned under the U.S. Constitution.

Investment capital does not include stock in a corporation that is conducting a unitary business with the taxpayer, stock in a corporation that is included combined group pursuant to the commonly owned group election, and stock issued by the taxpayer.

Investment income must be reduced by interest expenses directly and indirectly attributable to those items of income. In lieu of performing expense attribution, taxpayers may instead elect to reduce the income by 40 percent. Finally, the amount of investment income, determined without regard to interest deductions, cannot exceed eight percent of the taxpayer's ENI.

16. Deduction for Other Exempt Income

Citation: Section 208(6-a) and Section 208(8)

Effective Date: Section 208(6-a) is effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2015; Section 208(6-a)(ii) is effective for tax years beginning on or after

January 1, 2017; Section 208(6-a)(iii) is effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2019

Description: A taxpayer may deduct other exempt income from entire net income (ENI). Other exempt income means the sum of exempt controlled foreign corporation (CFC) income and exempt unitary corporation dividends.

Exempt CFC income defined in Tax Law section 208(6-a)(a) includes:

1. Subpart F income (other than that described in (ii) below) required to be included in the taxpayer's Federal gross income pursuant to IRC section 951(a) received from a corporation conducting a unitary business with the taxpayer but not included in the taxpayer's combined group;
2. mandatory deemed repatriation income required to be included in the taxpayer's Federal gross income pursuant to IRC section 951(a) by reason of IRC section 965(a) received from a corporation that is not included in the taxpayer's combined group; and
3. ninety-five percent of global intangible low-taxed income required to be included in the taxpayer's Federal gross income pursuant to IRC section 951A received from a corporation that is not included in the taxpayer's combined group.

The mandatory deemed repatriation related deduction allowed under IRC section 965(c) and the GILTI-related deduction allowed under IRC section 250 must be added back to ENI in years when the income is included in other exempt income.

For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2018 and before January 1, 2019, GILTI income as well as the corresponding IRC section 250 deduction for a portion of GILTI income, flowed through from the federal return to New York. As a result, the net GILTI amount was generally included in taxable business income.

Exempt unitary corporation dividends defined in Tax Law section 208(6-a)(b) includes:

1. dividends received from a corporation conducting a unitary business with the taxpayer but taxable, or would be taxable, under a franchise tax imposed by Article 9 or Article 33 of the Tax Law (cross-article dividends); and
2. dividends (other than those described in (i) above) received from a corporation conducting a unitary business with the taxpayer but not included in the taxpayer's combined group (i.e. alien corporations with no effectively connected income and corporations less than 50 percent directly or indirectly owned by the taxpayer).

The income listed above must be reduced by interest expenses directly or indirectly attributable to the production of such income. In lieu of performing expense attribution, taxpayers may instead elect to reduce the income (other than cross-article dividends) by 40 percent.

Other exempt income cannot exceed ENI.

Preferential Tax Rates

22. Special Tax Benefits for New York Manufacturers and Qualified Emerging Technology Companies (QETCs)

a. Special Tax Benefits for New York Manufacturers

Manufacturers in New York are subject to reduced tax rates and fixed dollar minimum amounts, as well as a lower capital base liability cap.

A manufacturer is defined as “a taxpayer...principally engaged in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing, assembling, refining, mining, extracting, farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture, or commercial fishing.” The generation and distribution of electricity, the distribution of natural gas, and the production of steam associated with the generation of electricity are not qualifying activities for a manufacturer.

To be a qualified New York manufacturer eligible for the preferential tax treatment, the taxpayer must meet two tests. First, the taxpayer, or the combined group, must be principally engaged in manufacturing. This test is satisfied if more than 50 percent of the taxpayer’s or group’s gross receipts are derived from the sale of goods produced by the activities listed above.

The second test requires the taxpayer to have manufacturing property in New York State with a New York adjusted basis of at least $1 million or have all of its real and personal property located in New York State.

A taxpayer, or combined group, that fails the receipts test may still be a qualified New York manufacturer if it has at least 2,500 New York manufacturing employees and manufacturing property in New York State with a New York adjusted basis of at least $100 million.

The credit equals 2.93 percent of the total principal and interest collected for each SONYMA mortgage secured by a one-to-four family residence. In addition, banks and mortgage bankers may receive an amount equal to the interest collected during the taxable year on each SONYMA mortgage secured by a five or more family residence multiplied by a fraction. The fraction depends on the types of properties which secure the serviced mortgage loans. The credit may reduce tax liability to zero.

Cross-Article Credits

Credits include amounts that the taxpayer may subtract in calculating New York tax liability or request as a refund or apply as a payment for the next tax period. Full descriptions of all the tax credits available under Article 9-A as well as other tax articles are contained in the Cross-Article Tax Credits section of this report.

This section of the report provides tax expenditure estimates for 56 separate provisions of the corporate franchise tax on insurance companies. The list of tax expenditures contained in Table 3 is based on the Tax Law as of January 1, 2023. The estimates are based on data from the 2019 tax year, the latest year for which Article 33 tax return data are available. They are also extrapolated to the 2023 tax year. The tax years refer to both the 2019 and 2023 calendar years and fiscal tax years beginning in 2019 and 2023. Total insurance tax liability for the 2019 tax year has been included to provide some perspective to the tax expenditure estimates.

Description of Tax

Article 33 imposes a franchise tax on insurance companies. The structure of the tax depends on the type of insurer as well as if the insurance corporation is authorized to do an insurance business in New York.

Life Insurance Corporations

Life insurance corporations compute tax on the highest of four bases and then add to the result both a subsidiary capital tax and a premiums tax.

The four alternative bases are:

- 7.1 percent of allocated entire net income; or
- 0.16 percent on allocated business and investment capital; or
- 9 percent of 30 percent of allocated entire net income plus officers' salaries less specified deductions; or
- a fixed dollar minimum tax of $250.

Life insurance corporations doing business within and without the State allocate entire net income (ENI), business and investment capital, and ENI plus officers' salaries to New York based on weighted ratios of premiums and wages earned or paid in New York to those earned or paid everywhere.

Added to the highest of the four bases are:

- 0.08 percent tax on subsidiary capital allocated to New York; and
- 0.7 percent tax on gross premiums, less return premiums thereon, written on risks located or resident in New York.

The total tax liability, less Empire Zone (EZ) credits, cannot be less than 1.5 percent of taxable premiums (the tax floor) or greater than 2 percent of taxable premiums (the cap on tax). Taxpayers may then claim other credits against the total tax liability.

Non-Life Insurance Corporations

Non-life insurance corporations are subject to the larger of a tax on premiums or a flat $250 fixed dollar minimum. Accident and health insurance premiums are taxed at 2.0 percent and other non-life insurance premiums are taxed at 1.75 percent.

Captive Insurance Corporations

Captive insurance corporations are subject to tax on gross direct premiums and assumed reinsurance premiums but cannot be less than a $5,000 minimum tax. Captives cannot use credits to reduce tax and are generally not included in a combined report.

Unauthorized Insurance Corporations

An unauthorized non-life insurance corporation, as well as an unauthorized life insurance corporation, doing business, employing capital, owning or leasing property in New York State in a corporate or organized capacity, or maintaining an office in New York State is subject to a franchise tax computed under the four bases plus the subsidiary capital base. However, an unauthorized insurance corporation is not subject to the additional premiums tax or the limitations based on premiums.

Data Sources

The major sources of data used to compute the tax expenditure estimates under Article 33 Insurance Tax include:

- 2019 Article 33 Insurance Tax Study File — This file, compiled by the Department of Taxation and Finance, includes the tax returns of all insurance companies filing under Article 33.
- New York State Department of Financial Services aggregate data.

Methodology

The projections of the tax expenditures from 2019 to 2023 use a variety of economic forecast variables.

Tax expenditures whose values are less than $0.1 million are considered minimal and are designated by an asterisk.

Certain Federal tax expenditure provisions “flow through” and impact the New York Insurance Tax. The tax begins with definitions of income that are derived from provisions of the Federal Internal Revenue Code. As a result of this “coupling” of State definitions of the income base to Federal definitions, exclusions or deductions from income at the Federal level become exclusions or deductions at the State level. Therefore, these provisions automatically become tax expenditures at the State level. The U.S. Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation (JCT) publishes an annual report (Estimates of Federal Tax Expenditures) that estimates Federal tax expenditure items. Many items generally flow through to New York, but since state-level data for Federal exclusion or deduction items are not available, state-specific estimates are not possible. Furthermore, it should be noted that New York does not conform to all Federal tax expenditure provisions. States can decide to not follow (or ‘decouple’ from) Federal provisions. For example, in 2003 New York decoupled from Federal bonus depreciation provisions under IRC Sec. 168(k).

The tax rates that apply to gross direct premiums and assumed reinsurance premiums decrease as the amount of premiums subject to tax increases, with the highest rate equaling 0.4 percent.

For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2009 and before January 1, 2015, an overcapitalized captive insurance company must be included in a combined return under either Article 9-A or 32 with the closest corporation that directly or indirectly owns or controls over 50 percent of the voting stock of the overcapitalized captive insurance company. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2015, a combinable captive insurance company must be included in a combined return under Article 9-A if it is more than 50 percent owned by an Article 9-A corporation.

Cross-Article Credits

Descriptions of other tax credits that are available under the Insurance Tax as well as other tax articles are contained in the Cross-Article Tax Credits section of the report.

This section of the report provides descriptions of 39 separate tax expenditure provisions of the Article 9 tax. It contains estimates of the tax expenditures for tax years 2015 through 2019 (2019 is the latest year for which Article 9 tax return data is available). The list of tax expenditures is based on the Tax Law as of January 1, 2023. The estimates are also extrapolated to the 2023 tax year. The tax year refers to both the 2023 calendar year and fiscal years beginning in 2023. Table 4 summarizes the tax expenditure estimates. It also includes total tax liability of Article 9 to provide perspective.

Description of Tax

Article 9 of the Tax Law imposes capital stock-based franchise and gross receipts-based taxes on a variety of specialized businesses.

Section 183 imposes a franchise tax on transportation and transmission companies and associations (excluding aviation companies which are taxable under Article 9-A) on the basis of allocated capital stock. Generally, a corporation's stock is allocated to New York in the ratio that the corporation's gross assets employed in the State bear to gross assets everywhere. U.S. obligations and cash in hand are excluded from the calculation. The tax equals the highest of the three amounts computed by the following methods: (1) allocated value of issued capital stock multiplied by 1.5 mills; (2) allocated value of issued capital stock on which dividends are paid 6 percent or more, multiplied by 0.375 mills for each one percent of dividends paid; or (3) a fixed minimum tax of $75. Effective January 1998, trucking and railroad companies previously taxable under Section 183 became taxable under Article 9-A, unless an election had been made to remain taxable under Article 9. Effective January 1, 2000, gas pipelines became taxable under Article 9-A.

Section 184 imposes an additional franchise tax on transportation and transmission corporations and associations based on their gross earnings within the state. The tax is 3/8 percent of gross earnings received from business conducted in New York. Beginning in 1995, Section 184 no longer applies to inter-exchange carriers, but applies only to those telecommunications corporations or associations principally engaged in a local telephone business. Companies principally engaged in long distance services are excluded from the tax. In addition, the law provided two exclusions to equalize the tax treatment of telecommunications services provided by local carriers, which remain subject to the Section 184 tax, and inter-exchange carriers. One hundred percent of receipts from sales for ultimate consumption from interLATA, interstate, or international services and 30 percent of intraLATA toll services, including interregion regional calling plan services are excluded in the computation of tax under Section 184. In January 1998, trucking and railroad companies formerly taxable under Section 184 became taxable under Article 9-A, unless they elected to remain taxable under Article 9. In January 2000, gas pipelines became taxable under Article 9-A.

Section 185 imposes a franchise tax on farmers, fruit growers, and other like agricultural corporations organized and operated on a cooperative basis. The tax is the highest amount computed under the following calculations: (1) allocated value of issued capital stock multiplied by one mill; (2) allocated value of issued capital stock on which dividends paid are six percent or more, multiplied by ¼ mill for each one percent of dividends paid; or (3) a fixed dollar minimum tax of $10. Section 185 is repealed for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2018.

Section 186, which was repealed effective January 1, 2000, provided for a franchise tax on waterworks companies, gas companies, electric or steam heating, lighting, and power companies. The tax was imposed at a rate of .75 percent on New York gross earnings and 4.5 percent on the amount of dividends paid which exceeded 4 percent of the amount of the taxpayer’s paid-in capital employed in New York State. The minimum tax alternative of $125 applied, but only in case and to the extent that the tax computed under the primary method was less than $125. An additional excess dividends tax may have also applied. Energy and water companies formerly taxable under this Section are now taxable under Article 9-A. However, a company may elect to remain a continuing Section 186 taxpayer and be subject to the tax as it existed in 1999, if certain conditions apply.

Section 186-a provides for a gross receipts tax on the furnishing of utility services. A utility is defined as any seller of gas, electricity, steam, water, or refrigeration. Utilities that provide telephone or telegraph services which are subject to the supervision of the Public Service Commission pay the tax on their gross receipts not derived from the sale of telecommunications services at a rate of 2.5 percent. Telecommunications service receipts are taxable under Section 186-e. The tax rate imposed on receipts from transportation, transmission, distribution, or delivery of energy for residential customers is 2.0 percent.

The following table shows the history of the Section 186-a rate structure as it pertains to receipts from the sale of an energy commodity and charges for the transportation, transmission, distribution, or delivery of energy.

Calendar Year	2000	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005 and After
Commodity Rate	2.1%	2.0%	1.9%	0.85%	0.4%	0%
T&D Rate	2.5%	2.45%	2.4%	2.25%	2.125%	2.0%

Section 186-e provides for an excise tax on telecommunications services at rate of 2.5 percent on the gross receipts of providers of non-mobile telecommunications services. The tax applies to gross receipts from all intrastate services and interstate and international services that either originate or terminate in New York and are billed to a service address in the State.

A separate excise tax is imposed on the sale of mobile telecommunication services by a telecommunication services provider at the rate of 2.9 percent. This rate applies to gross receipts from any mobile telecommunication service provided on or after May 1, 2015 by a home service provider where the mobile telecommunications customer's place of primary use is within New York State.

Most of the revenue from the Article 9 tax resulted from the gross receipts-based taxes (Sections 184, 186, 186-a, and 186-e).

Section 186-f imposes public safety communications surcharges on certain wireless communications services. A $1.20 per month surcharge is imposed for each postpaid wireless communications device in service for every customer whose place of primary use is in New York State. A $0.90 surcharge applies to each retail sale of a prepaid wireless communication service. This section took effect on September 1, 2009. The surcharge on prepaid wireless communications service was effective on December 1, 2017.

Data Sources

The major source of data used to compute the tax expenditure estimates under Article 9 is the 2019 Corporation Tax Study File. This file, compiled by the Department of Taxation and Finance, includes all corporations filing under Article 9. It includes selected data items from the tax returns of each corporation. Simulations of the file generate the base case tax expenditures.

Methodology

The projections of the tax expenditures from 2019 to 2023 use a variety of economic forecast variables.

Tax expenditures whose values are less than $0.1 million are considered minimal and are designated by an asterisk.

The effective dates recorded in the report refer to the date the applicable provision took effect.

Description of Tax

The New York State Sales and Use Tax was enacted in 1965 and took effect August 1, 1965. This tax applies primarily to retail sales of tangible personal property in New York State. The Sales and Use Tax also applies to a variety of services, notably, services to real or personal property, telephone service, and commercial energy use. Hotel occupancy, restaurant meals and certain admissions are also taxed. Generally, the tax base includes tangible personal property unless the law provides a specific exclusion or exemption and does not include services unless the law specifically enumerates the service as taxable.

The Tax Law provides manufacturers with exemptions for the purchase, repair, and maintenance of machinery and equipment used in production. Other exempt items include food, medicine, residential energy, and sales to exempt organizations. Although most services are not subject to sales or use tax, this report examines only services which are specifically exempted by New York.

The Department of Taxation and Finance administers the Sales and Use Tax for the State and its constituent jurisdictions that also impose the tax. The State rate equals 4 percent. Local rates range from 3 percent to 4.75 percent. Communities within the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation District are subject to an additional 3/8 of 1 percent tax rate. In State fiscal year 2021-22, the Department collected about $16.5 billion for the State and approximately $20.4 billion for local governments from sales and use taxes.

Data Sources

Most Sales Tax expenditure estimates use aggregate, non-tax data sources. This is because no tax return data exists for the many exclusions and exemptions. Thus, the estimates are only suggestive of the revenue loss associated with each provision. Estimates are rounded to the nearest million dollars.

Data sources used to compute the tax expenditure estimates include:

- Federal government publications and surveys such as the U.S. Census Bureau's Economic Census;
- New York State data resources from Open New York's open data portal; and
- Industry surveys and information, such as the information provided by the Vending Times.

Methodology

The report bases the historical estimates on the most recent data available. If data are not available for a particular year covered by the report, the tax expenditure is estimated from the most recent data. For example, where 2017 represents the latest year for which relevant data are available, the 2017 data are used to derive historical estimates. Historical estimates may vary from prior year reports due to the availability of more recent data. From the most recent data, tax expenditure estimates are projected to 2023 levels.

A sales tax transaction can be exempt from tax because the good or service is exempt or because its use, purchaser, or seller is exempt. In valuing the exemptions, no account is taken of the fact that if the good or service were made taxable, some of the transactions would remain exempt because of the nature of the use, purchaser, or seller. Hence, the value of a particular good or service may be included in two or more tax expenditure estimates. Because of this overlapping, the revenue value of eliminating an exemption would not necessarily coincide with the estimated value herein.

The estimates are based on data for the 2021 calendar year (the latest complete year for which tax return data is available) and then extrapolated to the 2023 calendar year. Total Petroleum Business Tax liability for calendar 2021 is provided as a benchmark for the tax expenditure estimates.

Description of Tax

Article 13-A of the Tax Law imposes a business privilege tax on petroleum businesses operating in New York State. The tax is measured by the quantity of various petroleum products refined or sold in the State or imported for sale or use in the State. Imposition of the tax occurs at different points in the distribution chain, depending upon the type of petroleum product. Motor fuel (gasoline) is subject to tax upon importation to New York State. Highway diesel motor fuel is taxable upon removal from an in-state registered fuel terminal. Non-highway diesel motor fuel and residual petroleum products become taxable on the final sale or use of the product in New York.

The Article 13-A business privilege tax was added to the Tax Law in 1983 and was imposed on the gross receipts of such businesses. On September 1, 1990, the tax was restructured, converting the annual gross receipts tax to a monthly tax measured by gallons.

Some of the exemptions, credits, and reimbursements provided for in the restructuring applied to the prior gross receipts tax. Although these provisions already had been in place, the effective dates and estimates cited herein reflect the date on which they were restructured.

- Petroleum Business Tax (PBT) Master File for 2017-2021. This is an unverified file of all taxpayers filing a return under Article 13-A.
- Refund data from the Department of Taxation and Finance’s Audit Division.
- Nontax data sources such as: Data from the U.S. Department of Energy and U.S. Department of Defense and New York State Energy Research and Development Authority.

Methodology

The projections of the tax expenditures from 2021 to 2023 are based, where possible, on forecasted consumption of various petroleum products. These forecasts were produced by the United States Department of Energy - Energy Information Agency. The remaining expenditure estimates used forecasts of appropriate economic variables.

Tax expenditures whose values are less than $0.1 million are considered Minimal and are designated by an asterisk.

This section of the report provides tax expenditure estimates for 17 separate provisions of the Real Estate Transfer Tax. Table 7 provides a list of expenditures based on the Tax Law as of January 1, 2023. The estimates are based on liability data from the 2020-21 fiscal year. Base year 2020-21 liability is also extrapolated to the 2023-24 fiscal year. The estimates are based on an examination of liability incurred between April 1 and March 31. Real Estate Transfer Tax liability for the 2020-21 fiscal year has been included to provide some perspective to the tax expenditure estimates.

Description of Tax

Adopted in 1968, Article 31 of the New York State Tax Law imposes a Real Estate Transfer Tax on the conveyance of real property or an interest in real property where the consideration exceeds $500. Payment is due no later than fifteen days after the delivery of the instrument affecting the conveyance (such as a deed). The rate of tax equals two dollars for every five hundred dollars (or fraction thereof) of consideration. Responsibility for payment rests with the person making the conveyance, the grantor. If the grantor (the seller) has failed to pay the tax or is exempt from liability, the grantee (the buyer) is responsible for payment.

The transfer tax also applies to conveyances of shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation, the creation of long-term leaseholds and subleases, and transfers or acquisitions of a controlling interest in an entity which owns an interest in real property.

Together with the basic transfer tax, an additional one percent tax (the “mansion” tax) is imposed on the conveyance of residential real property or interest therein where the consideration is one million dollars or more. The additional tax is imposed upon the grantee. However, if the grantee is exempt from tax, then the tax is imposed on the grantor.

Data Sources

The major source of data used to compute the tax expenditure estimates is the Real Estate Transfer Tax Return Database — This file, compiled by the Department of Taxation and Finance, includes information on selected transfers of real property. It includes data items from the TP-584 tax return filed with these transfers and is an unverified data file.

Historical estimates are projected to Fiscal Year 2023-24 levels using various economic forecast variables.

- July 13, 1996 and before September 1, 2023 to existing REITs.

Many of the tax credits New York State offers are available to taxpayers regardless of the tax article to which they are subject. This section provides descriptions of these credits and notes where there may be article-specific differences. The section also provides an estimate for the credit under each article where it is available. Credits that are only available under one tax article are reported in their respective section.

Taxpayers using and refunding over $2 million in certain tax credits in tax years 2010, 2011, and 2012 were required to defer excess amounts. Taxpayers could begin to redeem deferred credits starting in the 2013 tax year. All deferred nonrefundable tax credits are aggregated into the temporary deferral nonrefundable payout credit and may be applied to the extent permitted by the taxpayer's liability. Amounts in excess of any liability limitations will be allowed to be carried forward indefinitely for future use. All deferred refundable credits were aggregated into the temporary deferral refundable payout credit. Taxpayers were allowed to use and refund 50 percent of the total credit in tax year 2013, 75 percent of the remainder in tax year 2014, and the remaining balance in tax year 2015.

Because the temporary credit deferral program was essentially a shift in the timing of credit utilization, credit amounts reported in the Tax Expenditure Report do not account for the impact of deferral. Thus, data for the 2010-2012 tax years reflect the cost of credits as if deferral was not in place. This allows for a consistent basis against which to measure trends in credit utilization without needing to adjust for the timing distortion caused by the deferral program.

Because credit amounts in 2010-2012 are reported without regard to deferral, including the amounts of the deferral payout credits would amount to double counting of the cost of credits. In the years where deferral was in effect, the impact on the financial plan was lower than the reported credit amounts. Likewise, in years where deferral payout credits are claimed, the total cost of credits is higher than what is shown. However, the two amounts will offset each other.

Finally, some credits contained in this section can no longer be earned in the current year. They are retained in this report, however, because taxpayers possess a large, unused reserve of certain credits that can be carried forward and applied against future tax liabilities. These credits can be identified by looking at the effective dates included for each credit.

1. Investment Tax Credit and Employment Incentive Credit

a. Investment Tax Credit (ITC)

Citation: Section 210-B(1), Section 606(a), a-1

Credit Type: Refundable to New Businesses Only

Effective Date of Credit: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1969; the sections of this credit covering research and development (R&D) property and pollution control facilities represent a consolidation of previously separate tax benefits and are effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1987

Description: The law allows a credit based on the cost or other basis for Federal tax purposes of depreciable tangible personal property, including buildings and their structural components, acquired, constructed, reconstructed, or erected after December 31, 1968 having a useful life of four years or more, located within the State of New York, and used primarily for the production of goods by a variety of processes. The claiming of a depreciation or expense deduction for such property under certain other tax provisions, or the leasing of the property to another individual or corporation, unless explicitly allowed, disqualifies the taxpayer from exercising a claim under this provision. A taxpayer may carry forward any unused credit and apply it against the tax for subsequent years or, in the case of a qualified new business, claim it as a refund.

Taxpayers who provide three or more services, such as a studio lighting grid, lighting and grip equipment, or industrial scale electrical capacity to qualified film productions are eligible to claim the ITC on property used in the qualified film production facility.

The law allows a credit for expenditures paid or incurred during the tax year for the construction, reconstruction, erection, or improvement of pollution control, waste treatment, and acid rain control facilities. To qualify for the credit, facilities must be located within the State, used in regular business activities, and certified by the State Commissioner of Environmental Conservation.

Tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings used for the purpose of research and development in the laboratory or experimental sense is eligible for a higher credit rate. However, credit is not allowed with respect to property that has been leased to another individual or corporation, or that has been the basis of a claim for an elective expense deduction or a regular ITC. Furthermore, the credit is not allowed with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property principally used by the taxpayer in the production or distribution of electricity, natural gas after extraction from wells, steam, or water delivered through a pipe.

PIT Filers – The credit rate equals 4 percent of the investment credit base. The taxpayer may claim a rate of 7 percent on R&D property but is not allowed to also claim the employment incentive credit. For a taxpayer that is an eligible farmer, they may claim a rate of 20 percent for property placed in service on or after April 1, 2022 that is principally used by the farmer in the production of goods by farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, or viticulture. Where the allowable credit exceeds the taxpayer’s liability for a given year, the taxpayer may carry forward the excess credit for 10 subsequent tax years. In the case of a new business, excess credit may be received as a refund.

CFT Filers – The credit rate equals 5 percent of the first $350 million of the investment credit base. A 4 percent rate applies to amounts above $350 million. The taxpayer may claim a rate of 9 percent on R&D property but is not allowed to also claim the employment incentive credit. For a taxpayer that is an eligible farmer, they may claim a rate of 20 percent for property placed in service on or after April 1, 2022 that is principally used by the farmer in the production of goods by farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, or viticulture. Where the allowable credit exceeds the taxpayer’s liability for a given year, the taxpayer may carry forward the excess credit for 15 subsequent tax years. In the case of a new business, excess credit may be received as a refund.

NOTE: When qualified ITC property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of its useful life, a portion of the credit must be recaptured. Any ITC recapture may be added to the tax otherwise due in the year of disposition or disqualification.

b. Employment Incentive Credit (EIC)

Citation: Section 210-B(2), Section 606(a-1)

Credit Type: CFT - Non-refundable/Carryforward; PIT - Refundable to New Businesses Only

Effective Date of Credit: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1987 for corporate franchise taxpayers; January 1, 1997 for personal income taxpayers

Description: Taxpayers that increase employment may be eligible for the employment incentive credit, which is allowed for each of the two years succeeding the taxable year in which the ITC is earned. The amount of the credit is as follows:

- 1.5 percent of the ITC base if employment is at least 101 percent but less than 102 percent of the employment base year;
- 2.0 percent of the ITC base if employment is at least 102 percent but less than 103 percent of the employment base year;

- 2.5 percent of the ITC base if employment is at least 103 percent of the employment base year.

NOTE: As part of corporate tax reform, passed in the SFY 2014-15 Enacted Budget, the rehabilitation credit for historic barns and the retail enterprise tax credit were eliminated under Article 9-A (the Corporate Franchise Tax). These credits are still available under the personal income tax, but information on the amount of credits used and refunded in any year is not separately available.

Property purchased by a taxpayer affiliated with a regulated broker, dealer, registered investment advisor, or national securities exchange or board of trade, or property leased by a taxpayer to an affiliated regulated broker, dealer, registered investment advisor, national securities exchange, or board of trade is eligible for this credit if the property is used by the affiliate in an activity described above.

Taxpayers must also satisfy an annual employment test that measures New York State employment in the current tax year against one of three standards:

- 80% current-year test: 80% or more of the employees performing the administrative and support functions resulting from or relating to the qualifying uses of the property are located in New York State;
- 95% three-year back-office test: The average number of employees located in New York State performing the administrative and support functions resulting from or related to the qualifying uses of such equipment during the tax year is equal to or greater than 95% of the number during the 36 months immediately preceding the year for which the credit is claimed; or
- 90% end-of-year test: The number of New York State employees during the current tax year is equal to or greater than 90 percent of the number on December 31, 1998 or, if the taxpayer was not a calendar year taxpayer in 1998, the last day of its first taxable year ending after December 31, 1998.

Taxpayers will be allowed to earn additional Empire Zone Investment

Taxpayers may also claim an EZ-EIC similar to the regular EIC, based upon EZ-ITC claimed and employment increased within an EZ. The amount of the EZ-EIC allowed is 30 percent of the EZ-ITC for each of the three years following the year for which the original EZ-ITC was allowed. The EZ-EIC is allowed only for those years during which the average number of employees (except general executive officers) in the EZ is at least 101 percent of the average number of employees (except general executive officers) in the EZ during the tax year immediately preceding the tax year for which the original EZ-ITC was allowed.

The ZEA credit expired in 2004, but taxpayers are allowed to use carryforwards until exhausted. The total wage tax credit cannot exceed 50 percent of tax due before credits.

d. QEZE Real Property Tax Credit

Citation: Section 14, Section 15, Section 210-B(5), Section 606(bb), Section 1511(r)

Credit Type: Refundable

Effective Date of Credit: PIT/CFT /Insurance - Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2001

Description: For taxpayers certified prior to April 1, 2005, the QEZE real property tax credit (RPTC) is the product of three factors. The benefit period factor is 1.0 in the first ten years of certification, declining by 0.2 each year thereafter. The employment increase factor is based upon the QEZE's job growth. The final factor is the QEZE's real property taxes for the current tax year.

For taxpayers certified on or after April 1, 2005 and located in an Investment Zone (IZ), the credit equals 25 percent of the wages and health and retirement benefits of net new employees. Taxpayers located in a Development Zone (DZ) use the same formula but include an additional factor, the DZ employment increase factor, scaled to reward greater job increases. The credit can exceed these amounts if the capital investment limitation is greater, but the credit is capped at the amount of real property taxes.

Taxpayers certified on or after April 1, 2009 must reduce the computed credit amount by 25 percent.

e. QEZE Tax Reduction Credit

Citation: Section 14, Section 16, Section 210-B(6), Section 606(cc), Section 1511(s)

Credit Type: Non-refundable/Non-carryforward

Effective Date of Credit: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2001

Description: The QEZE tax reduction credit is the product of four factors: the benefit period factor, the employment increase factor, the zone allocation factor, and the tax factor. The first two factors are discussed above. The zone allocation factor measures the QEZE’s economic presence in the zone. The tax factor depends on the type of filer:

Tax Type	For Tax Years Beginning on or after January 1, 2016 the Tax Factor is:
Personal Income Tax	The amount of personal income tax attributable to allocated QEZE income
Corporation Franchise Tax	The QEZE’s tax on the BI base
Insurance Tax	The greater of the QEZE’s tax on the ENI or ENI plus compensation bases

For corporation franchise taxpayers located entirely within an EZ, the tax reduction credit can be applied against the fixed dollar minimum tax, potentially reducing a taxpayer’s liability to zero.

Credit Type: Refundable

Effective Date of Credit: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1997

Recapture provisions apply if the taxpayer converts the property to a nonqualified use in the two years subsequent to first use of the credit.

The credit begins to phase out for taxpayers with NYAGI in excess of $200,000, after subtracting principal on farm indebtedness, and is phased out completely at $300,000.

CFT Filers - The credit begins to phase out for taxpayers with New York entire net income in excess of $200,000 and is phased out completely at $300,000. Credit Type: Refundable

Effective Date of Credit: Program effective in 2010; credit effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2011

Description: The Excelsior Jobs Program (EJP) Act was created by Chapter 59 of the Laws of 2010 and subsequently amended by Chapter 61 of the Laws of 2011. The program is administered by Empire State Development (ESD) and offers four tax credits focused on certain strategic industries. To claim credits, taxpayers must first apply to and be approved by ESD. The annual credit allocations are reduced beginning in 2016. As initially enacted, ESD could issue up to $50 million in new credit annually, with a fully effective annual total program cost of $250 million in 2015. For taxable years 2016 through 2021, the cap amount is lowered from $200 million per year to $183 million. In 2024, the amount is reduced from $50 million to $36 million. For taxable years 2025 through 2029, the cap is raised to $200 million in credit per year. ESD will calculate the amount of each credit annually and issue a certificate of tax credit to participants entitling them to the credits. As initially enacted, taxpayers were allowed to claim credits for five consecutive years. Pursuant to Chapter 61, participants accepted into the program after April 1, 2011 have a 10-year benefit period. ESD may award 100 percent of any unallocated tax credits remaining at the end of 2029. The aggregate statutory cap for all years may not be exceeded and no credits are allowed for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2040. Enhancements have been made to the program in 2020 to add tax credits for green projects aimed at reducing greenhouse gas emissions and supporting the use of clean energy.

a. Excelsior Jobs Tax Credit

EJP participants may claim a credit for each net new job created in the State. For participants accepted into the program on or before April 1, 2011, the value of the credit cannot exceed $5,000 per new job and is computed on marginal wages plus benefit basis as follows:

- 5 percent of wages plus benefits of $50,000 or less;
- 4 percent of wages plus benefits between $50,001 and $75,000; and
- 1.33 percent of wages plus benefits over $75,000.

For taxpayers accepted into the program after April 1, 2011, the credit is equal to the gross wages multiplied by 6.85 percent. For green projects, the credit is equal to gross wages multiplied by 7.5 percent.

b. Excelsior Investment Tax Credit (EJP-ITC)

EJP participants may claim a credit equal to two percent of the cost of qualified investments in New York. The credit is increased to five percent of the cost of qualified investments for green projects and the construction of childcare service facilities. Taxpayers cannot claim both the EJP-ITC and the brownfield tangible property credit component for the same property in a given year. In addition, taxpayers accepted into the program on or before April 1, 2011 are prohibited from claiming both the EJP-ITC and the regular ITC.

- c. Excelsior Research and Development Tax Credit (EJP-R&D)
 EJP participants may claim a credit for research and development expenditures in New York. The credit is a percentage of the portion of the taxpayer’s federal research and development credit pertaining to expenditures attributable to New York. Eligible expenditures are defined in section 41 of the Internal Revenue Code. For taxpayers accepted into the program on or before April 1, 2011, the percentage is ten percent. For those accepted into the program after April 1, 2011, the percentage is fifty percent, subject to a limit of three percent of qualified research and development expenditures attributable to New York activity. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2018, the limit is increased to six percent. The credit for green projects is equal to eight percent of qualified R&D expenditures attributable to activities conducted in New York State.

- d. Excelsior Real Property Tax Credit (EJP-RPTC)
 EJP participants located in areas formerly designated as Investment Zones under the Empire Zones Program or that qualify as regionally significant projects may claim a credit for real property taxes. The credit equals 50 percent of the property taxes assessed and paid in the year immediately prior to a taxpayer’s application to the EJP and is gradually phased out. For taxpayers accepted into the program on or before April 1, 2011, the credit is phased down ten percent a year over five years. For those accepted into the program after April 1, 2011, the credit declines by 5 percent a year over ten years.

- e. Excelsior Child Care Services Tax Credit (EJP-CSTC)

- the tax-free NY area allocation factor and
- the tax factor.

The tax-free NY area allocation factor is the percentage of the business’s economic presence in the tax-free NY area where the business was approved to locate under Article 21 of the Economic Development Law.

For Article 9-A taxpayers, the tax factor is the largest of the taxes on the business income base, capital base, or fixed dollar minimum tax after the deduction of any other credits. For Article 22 taxpayers, the tax factor is determined by reducing the individual’s tax computed under section 601(a)-(d) of the Tax Law for the tax year by any other allowable credits and adjusting that reduced amount by the ratio of the income from business in the tax-free New York area to the taxpayer’s New York adjusted gross income. In both cases, the ratios may not exceed 1.0.

For corporate franchise taxpayers, the credit cannot reduce the tax due below the fixed dollar minimum unless the taxpayer has a tax-free NY area allocation factor of 100%. In that instance, the tax can be reduced to zero. Any excess credit may be refunded. For personal income taxpayers, the credit may reduce the tax to zero and any excess may be refunded.

If a taxpayer claimed any federal deduction for excise taxes on telecommunication services and also claims the START-UP NY telecommunication services excise tax credit, when computing the taxpayer’s New York adjusted gross income (or New York taxable income in the case of an estate or trust), the taxpayer must add back the federal deduction amount for excise taxes on telecommunication services used in the calculation of the credit.

An eligible farm employee is an individual who is employed for 500 hours or more per taxable year by a farm employer in New York State. However, general executive officers of a farm employer are excluded from the credit. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2019, if more than fifty percent of an eligible farmer's federal gross income from farming is from the sale of wine or cider, then an eligible farm employee shall only be included for purposes of calculating the credit if such employee is employed on qualified agricultural property. Also, where an individual employed by a farm employer in New York State becomes unable to work due to a documented illness or disability, the hours such individual is employed may be combined with the hours worked by a hired replacement individual when determining the 500-hour threshold.

The credit is phased in gradually by taxable year:

Tax years beginning on or after	and before	Credit per eligible farm employee
January 1, 2017	January 1, 2018	$250
January 1, 2018	January 1, 2019	$300
January 1, 2019	January 1, 2020	$500
January 1, 2020	January 1, 2021	$400
January 1, 2021	January 1, 2022	$600
January 1, 2022	January 1, 2023	$1200
January 1, 2023	January 1, 2024	$1200
January 1, 2024	January 1, 2025	$1200
January 1, 2025	January 1, 2026	$1200

1. Modify the Investment Tax Credit for Farmers

Background: Eligible farmers who invest in tangible property that is predominantly used in agricultural activities in New York State may qualify for an investment tax credit. The SFY 2022-23 Enacted Budget increased the credit rate to 20% of the investment credit base on qualifying property placed in service on or after April 1, 2022. Prior to that date, the credit was computed at a 4% rate. The credit is currently only refundable to new businesses.

Proposal: This proposal would make the ITC fully refundable for eligible farmers for tax years 2023 through 2027.

Discussion: On average, a farm sees approximately $15,000 in ITC go unutilized each year. To remedy this and to help farmers invest in their agri-enterprises, the proposal would make the ITC fully refundable for five years. These modifications would allow eligible farmers to receive a much-needed benefit that would enable them to continue to update, modernize, and invest in their farming operations.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

2. Extend and Enhance the Film Tax Credit

Background: Taxpayers satisfying a threshold level of film production activity in New York State may claim the Empire State film production credit that currently is 25 percent of qualified production costs incurred in the production of films and certain television shows. Projects are eligible for an additional credit equal to 10 percent of the wages or salaries of individuals employed by a qualified film or independent film production company for services performed in specific Upstate New York counties. Credit is awarded on a first come, first served basis with applications made to the New York State Governor's Office for Motion Picture and Television Development (MP/TV).

Companies that are ineligible for the film production credit may qualify for the film post-production credit. To be eligible for the post-production credit, the costs incurred at a qualified post-production facility must equal or exceed 75 percent of the total post-production costs at any post-production facility.

The annual amount of credit that can be allocated by MP/TV is $420 million in 2010 through 2029, with $25 million annually dedicated to the post-production credit beginning in 2015. Both credits are effective for tax years before January 1, 2030.

Proposal: This proposal would amend the Empire State film production and the Empire State film post-production credit to:

- Extend the credits for five years (through 2034);
- Increase the annual funding cap of the credits to $700 million (from $420 million) starting in tax year 2024, with $45 million of the $700 for the post-production credit;
- Reduce the number of seasons that a relocated television series must be filmed outside New York prior to its first relocated season in New York to be eligible for the credits (from five to two);

- Increase the credit for qualified expenses from 25 percent to 30 percent;
- Provide an additional credit of five percent, for two years, or, to any series that has filmed at least six episodes outside New York immediately prior to relocating to the state;
- Modify payout rules for productions to allow taxpayers to receive the credit in the taxable year of the allocation year for which the film has been allocated credit;
- Make “above the line” wage/salary costs of producers, writers, directors, actors, and composers eligible for the credit to the extent those wages/salaries or other compensation do not exceed $500,000 per individual;
- Add to the definition of ‘qualified production costs’ that the aggregate total eligible qualified production costs for producers, writers, directors, actors, and composers shall not exceed 40 percent of the aggregate sum total of all other qualified production costs.

Discussion: The Empire State film production credit is among the most stable in the nation, and in extending the film tax credit for an additional five years, would increase this stability and help to attract productions. Enhancing the yearly allocation from $420 million to $700 million would allow New York to meet the rising demand for New York’s talent and resources. Including a capped credit for “above the line” salaries like those for producers, writers, directors, actors, and composers alongside the “below the line” salaries of union workers already included in the incentive and restoring the credit for qualified expenses from 25 percent to 30 percent, where it was prior to 2019, would increase New York’s competitiveness with neighboring jurisdictions. These changes will strengthen New York’s already successful tax credit, which has supported more than 57,000 jobs and $12 billion in wages a year.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

3. Extend the application deadline for COVID-19 Capital Costs Tax Credit Program

Background: The SFY 2022-23 Enacted Budget created the COVID-19 Capital Costs Tax Credit. Small business taxpayers that incurred costs of at least $2,000 from January 1, 2021, through December 31, 2022, to comply with public health or other emergency orders or regulations related to the COVID-19 pandemic may claim a refundable credit equal to 50 percent of qualifying costs. The credit is capped at $25,000 per claim and the total amount of credit under the program is capped at $250 million. Taxpayers must apply to ESD for a certificate of tax credit by March 31, 2023, and can claim credit in the tax year that includes the date the certificate is issued.

Proposal: This bill would extend the statutory application deadline for the COVID-19 Capital Costs Tax Credit Program.

Discussion: This proposal will give small businesses additional time to apply for this tax credit. Specifically, the bill extends the statutory application deadline of March 31, 2023, to September 30, 2023.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

4. Create a Tax Credit for Child Care Creation and Expansion

Background: This proposal creates a child care credit for businesses that create new childcare seats or expand existing child care to add new childcare seats for their employees.

A similar refundable credit is currently available to Article 9-A and 22 taxpayers, who are allowed the federal credit for qualifying expenditures paid or incurred in providing child care alternatives to their employees.

Proposal: This bill would allow eligible business entities to receive a refundable tax credit for creating and expanding childcare seats for their employees. The credit would be administered by the Office of Children and Family Services (OCFS).

Discussion: The preexisting Federal and State employer provided childcare credits have not been widely utilized by employers due to limitations on eligible expenses and other restrictions. This proposal creates a more flexible statewide credit for two years that aligns with a similar New York City credit, allowing city-level and state-level outcomes to be evaluated at the same time. The additional childcare seats are necessary to allow employees to effectively work in New York State.

This proposal would establish the Child Care Creation and Expansion Tax Credit Program, administered by OCFS and capped at $25 million annually for two years. The refundable credit would be available to businesses, taxable under Articles 9-A, 22 and 33 of the Tax Law that create new childcare seats or expand existing childcare to add new childcare seats, directly or through a third party, for their employees after April 1, 2023. The allowable credit would be a function of the type of childcare seat and the “childcare rate,” which is dictated by the 2022 Child Care Market Rate Survey Report published by OCFS, provided that the costs imposed on such employees for such childcare program do not exceed 40 percent of the childcare rate.

To participate, a business entity must submit a complete application to OCFS by January 31st after the end of the service year.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

5. Extend the Tax Credit for Rehabilitation of Historic Properties

Background: The credit for rehabilitation of historic properties equals 100 percent of the federal credit amount allowed for the same historic structure located in New York, with the total amount of the New York State credit not exceeding $5 million per structure.

Proposal: This proposal would extend the credit by an additional 5 years.

Discussion: Historic properties are buildings and the structural components that are listed in the National Register of Historic Places or are located in a registered historic district and that are certified to be of historic significance to the district. This tax credit is currently available through Tax Year 2024, but this proposal would extend the tax credit through Tax Year 2029.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

6. Extend the Empire State Commercial Production Tax Credit

Background: The Empire State commercial production credit is available to taxpayers that paid or incurred qualified production costs in producing a qualified commercial in New York State. The amount of the credit is based on the qualified production costs and is allocated by the New York State Governor’s Office of Motion Picture & Television Development.

Proposal: The proposal would extend the Empire State commercial production credit by an additional 5 years, through tax years beginning before January 1, 2029.

Discussion: The Empire State commercial production tax credit program provides incentives to qualified production companies that are principally engaged in and control the production of qualified commercials in New York State. Statewide, up to $7 million in credits is available annually as follows: $4 million for companies producing commercials downstate and $3 million for companies producing upstate. This proposal would ensure that these incentives continue to be available.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

7. Extend the New York City Musical and Theatrical Production Tax Credit

Background: The New York City Musical and Theatrical Production Tax Credit, administered by Empire State Development, provides a credit equal to 25 percent of qualified production expenditures paid during the credit period.

Proposal: The proposal would make the following changes to the New York City Musical and Theatrical Production tax credit:

- Extend the current $3 million per production credit cap to productions that have their first performance prior to January 1, 2024;
- Increase the aggregate program cap by an additional $100 million, to $300 million;
- Ensure the obligation of producers to make contributions to the New York State Council on the Arts Cultural Programs Fund continues until December 31, 2027;
- Extend the deadline for applying for the credit by an additional two years, from June 30, 2023 to June 30, 2025; and
- Remove the $1.5 million per production cap.

Discussion: Given the continued impacts of COVID-19 on the theater industry, these amendments would help ensure that the New York City musical and theatrical production credit continues to provide needed assistance.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

8. Extend the Grade No. 6 Heating Oil Conversion Tax Credit

Background: The grade no. 6 heating oil conversion credit provides a credit on expenses for the conversion from grade no. 6 heating oil fuel to biodiesel heating oil or a geothermal system at any building located in New York State outside of New York City. It is equal to 50 percent of the conversion costs approved by New York State Energy Research and Development Authority (NYSERDA). The amount of credit cannot exceed $500,000 per a facility.

Proposal: The proposal would extend the credit cost eligibility period by an additional 6 months.

Discussion: The credit is currently available for costs incurred on or after January 1, 2022, and before July 1, 2023. This proposal would extend this eligibility period by an additional six months to before January 1, 2024.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

9. Technical Changes to the Tax Credit for Companies Who Provide Transportation to Individuals with Disabilities

Background: Taxpayers providing taxicab or livery service may claim a tax credit under Article 9-A and Article 22 equal to the incremental cost associated with upgrading a vehicle so that it is accessible by individuals with disabilities. In addition, taxpayers may also claim the credit for the purchase of new vehicles manufactured to be accessible by individuals with disabilities and for which there is no comparable make or model that does not include the equipment necessary to provide accessibility to persons with disabilities. The credit is limited to $10,000 per vehicle. Vehicles accessible for individuals with disabilities must comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act and other Federal regulations.

Proposal: This proposal would make technical changes to the tax credit pertaining to cross-references to federal regulations. The changes would apply to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2023.

Discussion: The credit provisions currently reference an expired regulation of the Federal Architecture and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board (36 CFR 1192.23) that details accessibility guidelines for buses, over-the-road buses, and vans, and is nearly identical to the provisions of 49 CFR 38.23, which is also referenced in the credit statutes. This proposal would remove the references to the expired regulation. This proposal would also correct the Tax Law §210-B(38) and 606(tt) references to the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards in the Code of Federal Regulations, 49 CFR 571.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

10. Technical Change to the Brownfield Tax Credit

Background: A taxpayer participating in the Brownfield Cleanup Program (BCP) who enters into a brownfield site cleanup agreement (BCA) qualifies for the brownfield redevelopment tax credit if the taxpayer has been issued a Certificate of Completion (COC) by the Commissioner of Environmental Conservation.

The brownfield redevelopment tax credit is allowed against the New York State taxes imposed on corporate taxpayers under Article 9 (sections 183 or 184), Article 9-A, or 33 and on individual taxpayers under Article 22 of the Tax Law.

The credit is the sum of the following three separate and distinct credit components, computed each tax year, for eligible costs incurred in the remediation or redevelopment of a qualified site:

- the site preparation credit component,
- the tangible property credit component, and
- the on-site groundwater remediation credit component.

Proposal: This bill makes technical changes to the brownfield redevelopment tax credit that will be deemed to have been in effect on and after April 9, 2022.

Discussion: The SFY 2022-23 Enacted Budget amended the brownfield redevelopment tax credit to allow the site preparation credit component to be claimed for up to 7 years from the issuance of the certificate of completion (COC) when the taxpayer was issued a COC between July 1, 2015 and June 24, 2021. This was in recognition of the impact Covid-19 had on stalling or ceasing work on sites in the BCP during a site’s credit eligibility period.

However, the amendment of the definition of “site preparation costs” was erroneously written so that it applied to taxpayers accepted into the program between July 1, 2015 and June 24, 2021, instead of taxpayers issued a COC between July 1, 2015 and June 24, 2021. This discrepancy was unintended, and the effect is that taxpayers continue to have only 5 years to claim the relevant credits instead of 7 years. This proposal would correct that drafting error.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

11. Create the Extended Prosperity and Innovation Campuses (“EPIC”)

Background: The SUNY Tax-Free Areas to Revitalize and Transform Upstate New York Program (START-UP NY), administered by Empire State Development (ESD), provides tax benefits to approved businesses that locate in vacant space or land of approved New York State public and private colleges and universities, approved strategic state assets, and New York State incubators affiliated with private universities or colleges that are designated as tax-free areas. To participate in the START-UP NY Program, a business must first submit an application to the campus, college or university sponsoring the tax-free New York area.

START-UP NY helps new and expanding businesses through tax-based incentives and innovative academic partnerships. START-UP NY offers new and expanding businesses the opportunity to operate tax-free for 10 years on or near eligible university or college campuses in New York State. Partnering with these schools gives businesses direct access to advanced research laboratories, development resources and experts in key industries.

Proposal: The proposal creates the Extended Prosperity and Innovation Campuses (“EPIC”) Initiative to replace the START-UP NY program. It expands the program and allows downstate colleges and universities to allocate off-campus land and space in the same manner as upstate schools while eliminating the high-tech, or formative stage requirement for downstate businesses seeking to utilize the program. It also empowers the Commissioner of Economic Development with decision making authority when the EPIC approval board is not fully constituted or is unable to convene and extends the deadline until December 31, 2030 for businesses to submit applications to campuses, universities, or colleges to be located in EPIC zones. The proposal is effective thirty days after it has become law.

Discussion: Redesigning and rebranding START-UP NY is a direct response to the need to grow new businesses and help form strong partnerships between the private sector and the State's leading educational centers. Technology-related innovations have been strong growth engines for the State, leading to millions of dollars in investments and the creation of high-wage jobs.

EPIC replaces the START-UP NY program and establishes the same requirements, benefits, and eligibility criteria upstate and downstate; supports a wider range of innovation businesses; reduces barriers to participation; and increases the amount of space in the State dedicated to growing innovation and creating jobs. Participating businesses will operate tax-free for 10 years on or near eligible university or college campuses. These partnerships give businesses direct access to advanced research laboratories, development resources, and experts in key industries, resulting in increased commercialization of new technologies and ensuring mutually beneficial collaborations.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

12. Extend and Limit the Vending Machine Sales Tax Exemption to Business Enterprise Program Vendors for One Year

Background: Currently, candy, soft drinks, bottled water and certain fruit juice purchased from a vending machine that accepts only cash or coins are exempt from sales tax if the items is priced at $1.50 or less. If the vending machine can accept payment in some other form (such as a credit card), then the tax exemption threshold is $2.00 or less per item. These exemptions are set to expire after May 31, 2023.

Proposal: The 2023-24 Executive Budget would extend the existing sales tax exemption for certain food and drink purchased from vending machines for one year. However, it would limit the extension to vending machines operated by participants in the Business Enterprise Program for blind vendors.

Discussion: This proposal would provide support to vendors in the New York State Commission for the Blind Business Enterprise Program.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

13. Extend the Lower Manhattan Sales and Use Tax Exemption

Background: Certain purchases of tangible personal property and services related to leased commercial office space in two eligible areas in lower Manhattan are exempt from sales and use tax. They are currently set to expire beginning in 2023.

Proposal: The 2023-24 Executive Budget would extend the exemption for five years, through 2028.

Discussion: The extension will provided continued savings for businesses located in lower Manhattan.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

14. Extend the Temporary Article 9-A Tax Rates

Background: For tax years 2021-23, the capital base tax rate is reinstated at a 0.1875% rate for certain taxpayers, and corporations with a business income base over $5 million are subject to a 7.25% rate, as opposed to the general rate of 6.5%.

Qualified New York manufacturers, qualified emerging technology companies, and small businesses are not subject to the capital base tax or the higher business income base tax rate. In addition, cooperative housing corporations are also exempt from the capital base tax.

Proposal: This proposal would extend these temporary rates through tax year 2026.

Discussion: The 2021-22 Enacted Budget temporarily re-instated the capital base tax for certain taxpayers and imposed a higher business income base rate on large taxpayers. This proposal extends the rates for another three years through tax year 2026.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

15. Extend the Reduced Transfer Tax Rates for Qualifying REITs

Background: Certain real estate investment trusts (REITs) are eligible for reduced rates under the New York State Real Estate Transfer Tax (RETT). These reduced rates are currently set to expire on September 1, 2023.

Proposal: This proposal would extend the tax rate reductions for real estate investment trusts (REITs) under the New York State Real Estate Transfer Tax (RETT) until September 1, 2026.

Discussion: These provisions have been routinely extended since 1999. The extension of these preferential provisions would maintain and encourage new investments in real estate across the state.

Revenue: This proposal would have no effect on state revenues in SFY 2023-24.

Business Income: Business income for Article 9-A taxpayers generally equals ENI minus other exempt income and investment income.

Business Income Base: The taxable income base for Article 9-A taxpayers. It is computed by subtracting the prior net operating loss conversion subtraction and net operating loss deduction from apportioned business income.

Compensating Use Tax: Tax levied on tangible personal property and services for its consumption, storage, or use in the State of residency upon which sales tax has not been collected.

Corporate Exemption: The partial or full statutory exemption of certain types of business entities from taxation.

Credit Earned: The amount of credit generated in the current tax year.

Credit Claimed: The amount of credit which taxpayers have available during the taxable year. Taxpayers determine this by adding credit earned in the current year to any unused credit from prior years and subtracting any applicable credit recapture. The claimed amount also reflects the imposition of any statutory limitations.

Credit Used: The amount of credit which taxpayers actually apply to their tax liability.

Credit Carried Forward: Any unused amount of credit which is allowed to be used to offset tax liability in future years. The amount of credit carried forward is determined by subtracting the amount of credit used or refunded in the current year from the amount of credit claimed.

Credit Refunded: Unused credit amounts requested as a refund or applied against the next liability period. These are requested amounts from the tax return, not necessarily amounts actually paid. Refund requests are subject to audit and adjustment by the Tax Department and the Office of the State Comptroller.

Deduction: An amount which a taxpayer is allowed to subtract when computing the tax base.

Deferral: The legal authorization to delay the obligation to pay tax to a future period (e.g., a future tax year).

Dependent Exemptions: A fixed amount that is subtracted from New York Adjusted Gross Income for an individual's dependents, not including the taxpayer or spouse.

Entire Net Income (ENI): ENI equals federal taxable income after certain additions and subtractions for items that New York treats differently. The major adjustment in the computation of ENI for most taxpayers is the exclusion of certain income received from related entities not included in the New York combined group.

Excise Tax: A fixed, per unit tax imposed on a commodity or commodities (e.g., 11 cents per gallon of beer).

Exclusion/Exemption: The statutory elimination of certain items or transactions from the tax base.

Federal Adjusted Gross Income (FAGI): The amount of Federal income earned or received during the income year after certain exclusions and adjustments. Major exclusions from gross income include many government transfer payments, employer-provided pension contributions and fringe benefits, most capital gains from the sale of a primary residence, and a portion of social security benefits. Major adjustments to gross income include deductions for individual retirement arrangements, alimony paid, employee moving expenses, and one-half of self-employment tax paid.

Federal Conformity: The extent to which State tax laws adopt or conform to various provisions of Federal Tax Law.

Federal Taxable Income (FTI): The amount of taxable income before certain deductions reported by a corporate taxpayer on its Federal tax return. FTI includes all income received by the taxpayer during the tax year and most deductions from income. It does not include the Federal net operating loss deduction or the special Federal deductions for dividends received.

Flow-Through Provisions: Provisions (e.g., definitions, deductions, exclusions) that are derived from provisions of the Federal Tax Law and are applied to or flow-through to State Tax Law.

Franchise Tax: A tax imposed on business corporations for the privilege of conducting business in the State.

Gross Receipts Tax: Tax levied on the total receipts (e.g., income from sales) of a business.

Itemized Deductions: Individual deductions that are subtracted from New York Adjusted Gross Income and are applied in lieu of a standard deduction.

New York Adjusted Gross Income (NYAGI): The amount of Federal adjusted gross income earned or received during the income year after certain modifications and before the subtraction of either the standard deduction or itemized deductions, and dependent exemptions. For example, New York State income tax refunds, included in FAGI, are subtracted in determining NYAGI.

Personal Income Tax: A tax imposed on the income of persons. Examples of income that may be subject to tax include wages, non-wage income (interests, dividends, capital gains), business income, and investment income.

Premiums Tax: A tax imposed on insurance corporations and levied on the amount of net premiums received.

Reimbursement: An amount due to a taxpayer where there was a payment of tax, but no liability.

Standard Deduction: A statutorily fixed amount, determined by filing status, subtracted from New York adjusted gross income.

Tangible Personal Property: Corporeal personal property of any nature.

Tax Expenditure: Features of the Tax Law that by exemption, exclusion, deduction, allowance, credit, preferential tax rate, deferral, or other statutory device, reduce the amount of taxpayers' liabilities to the State by providing either economic incentives or tax relief to particular classes of persons or entities, to achieve a public purpose.

Taxable Income: The amount to which the applicable tax rate is applied. Taxable income is gross income (prior to any adjustments) minus modifications, deductions, and exemptions.

Tax Liability: The amount of tax required to be paid by a taxpayer.

Transfer Tax: A tax imposed on the transfer of tangible personal property (e.g., real property) from one individual or entity to another.
