General information

Chapter 407 of the Laws of 1999 amended the Tax Law to allow a credit for purchase of an automated external defibrillator, as defined under section 3000-b of the Public Health Law. The credit applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2001. A taxpayer may claim the credit for each automated external defibrillator purchased (other than for resale) during the tax year.

Eligibility

The following taxpayers are eligible to claim the credit:
— General business corporations taxable under Article 9-A;
— Banking corporations taxable under Article 32; and
— Insurance corporations taxable under Article 33.

Credit amount

The amount of the credit allowed for each automated external defibrillator purchased (other than for resale) during the tax year is equal to the lesser of:

- the cost to the taxpayer of the automated external defibrillator; or
- $500.

There is no limit on the number of automated external defibrillators purchased during the tax year on which the credit may be claimed. However, the credit cannot exceed $500 for each unit purchased. The credit cannot reduce the tax to less than the following minimum taxes:

- the larger of the tax on minimum taxable income base or fixed dollar minimum tax as computed under Article 9-A;
- the fixed minimum tax of $250 computed under Article 32; or
- the fixed tax of $250 under Article 33.

Any amount of the credit not applied against the current tax year may not be carried over to the following year or years. The credit is not refundable. Any amount of the credit not applied against the current tax year may not be claimed as an overpayment of tax. The credit cannot be applied against the metropolitan transportation business tax surcharge (MTA surcharge) under Articles 9-A, 32 or 33.

Definition

Section 3000-b(1)(a) of the Public Health Law provides that an automated external defibrillator means a medical device, approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration, that: (i) is capable of recognizing the presence or absence, in a patient, of ventricular fibrillation and rapid ventricular tachycardia; (ii) is capable of determining without intervention by an operator, whether defibrillation should be performed on the patient; (iii) upon determining that defibrillation should be performed, automatically charges and requests delivery of an electrical impulse to the patient's heart; and (iv) then, upon action by the operator, delivers an appropriate electrical impulse to the patient's heart to perform defibrillation.

Line instructions

General business corporations taxable under Article 9-A (other than New York S corporations), banking corporations taxable under Article 32, and insurance corporations taxable under Article 33 complete Part I and Part II.

New York S corporations: complete Form CT-250 through line 1 and include the amount from line 1 on Form CT-34-SH.

Part I – Computation of credit

Column A - Enter the name and model number of each automated external defibrillator (as defined under section 3000-b of the Public Health Law) that you purchased (other than for resale) during the current tax year.

Column B - Enter the date that the automated external defibrillator listed in column A was purchased.

Column C - Enter the cost of the automated external defibrillator listed in column A. The term cost means the basis of the property as defined in section 1012 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC).

Column E - Enter for each automated external defibrillator listed in column A, the lesser of:

- the cost of the automated external defibrillator as shown in column C; or
- the $500 maximum shown in column D.

The credit amount cannot exceed $500 for each unit purchased.

If you purchased more than five automated external defibrillators, list the requested information on a separate sheet and attach the list to this form.

Part II – Computation of credit used

New York S corporations: Do not complete Part II. You cannot apply the credit that originates in a New York S year against the New York State corporation franchise tax under Articles 9-A and 32. The credit is allowed to individuals, estates, and trusts who are shareholders of an electing New York S corporation. The amount of the credit allowed each shareholder is his or her pro rata share of the credit as computed by the New York S corporation. Shareholders of the New York S corporation can obtain their share of the credit from the New York S corporation. For further information see Form IT-250.

Line 2 - Enter your franchise tax before credits from the following forms:

- Form CT-3, line 78;
- Form CT-3-A, line 77;
- Form CT-32, line 5;
- Form CT-32-A, line 5;
- Form CT-33, line 11; and
- Form CT-33-A, line 16.

Line 3 - Enter the total amount of any tax credit or credits (other than this credit) that were applied against the current year's franchise tax. Refer to the instructions of your franchise tax return to determine the ordering of credits.
