Who may use this certificate
A registered distributor of alcoholic beverages may use this certificate to purchase alcoholic beverages from another registered distributor without the payment of alcoholic beverages tax when purchased for resale or other certain uses.

Example: ACB Brewery is registered with the Tax Department as a distributor of alcoholic beverages. XZY Distributor, who is also registered with the Tax Department, purchases 500 gallons of beer from ACB Brewery. Because both ACB Brewery and XZY Distributor are New York State registered distributors of alcoholic beverages, this is an interdistributor sale. ACB Brewery can sell their beer to XZY Distributor without charging the alcoholic beverages tax. ACB Brewery and XZY Distributor must both complete Form TP-218.

Certification Type
A Single-Purchase Certification is to be used for one-time transactions, or those in which a future similar transaction is unknown.

A Repeating-Purchase Certification is to be used for reoccurring transactions between the same parties when future transactions are intended.

If you are issuing this exemption certificate, you are liable for any and all alcoholic beverages tax due on this purchase at the time the product is sold, unless your customer is exempt. For information on exempt sales and uses of alcoholic beverages, visit our website and search: ABT
