Introduction and Background

Chapter 170 of the Laws of 1994 created the New York State earned income tax credit (EITC), effective in 1994. For the 1994 tax year, the credit equals 7.5 percent of the federal EITC. New York residents may receive a refund of any excess credits. The credit is nonrefundable to nonresidents. Taxpayers must file a New York State income tax return to receive the earned income tax credit.

Seven states, including New York, currently provide an earned income tax credit linked to federal law.<sup>1</sup> The federal credit equals a percentage of earned income, up to a maximum amount. It declines as income increases. Taxpayers must receive earned income to claim the credit. Table 1 provides a summary of the major provisions of both the federal and New York credits.

Legislation enacted in 1995 amended the State EITC in two ways. First, it increased the percentage for tax year 1996 from the previously scheduled 15 percent to 20 percent of the federal credit. The scheduled percentage for 1997 and thereafter remains at 20 percent. Second, it restored the household credit for 1996 and thereafter, and requires taxpayers to subtract it from their EITC.

This statistical study results from a legislative mandate. The Department of Taxation and Finance (the Department) must submit to the Governor and the Legislature an annual preliminary report by September 30, and an annual final report by February 15 of each year. The legislation mandates the reporting of detailed data, on a county-level basis, showing the usage and value of the EITC. It also requires classification of this data by amount of earned income, size of credit, and number of qualifying children. Appendix A contains the actual mandate for this statistical study as contained in Chapter 170 of the Laws of 1994.

Nature and Purpose of the EITC

Congress adopted the federal earned income tax credit as part of the Tax Reduction Act of 1975. It subsequently expanded the scope and enriched the size of the credit three times — in 1986, 1990, and 1993. In each case, both qualifying earnings and corresponding credit amounts increased significantly.

While Congress has expanded both the size and scope of the earned income tax credit, it has generally retained the credit's basic structure. It applies at a fixed rate of a maximum amount of earnings, resulting in a maximum credit amount up to certain levels. When the higher of earnings or federal adjusted gross income (FAGI) exceeds these levels, the credit begins to phase out at a fixed rate. The EITC first functions like a negative income tax, because it is fully refundable if it exceeds tax liability.<sup>2</sup> It then becomes fixed over a narrow income range and, finally, it creates an additional marginal tax rate over the phaseout range.

Source: OTPA Calculation.
 * Or FAGI (if greater).

The EITC serves several intertwined purposes within the federal tax and transfer system. First, because it is based on earned income, it acts as a type of wage subsidy. This increases the net return to work effort and thus is intended to encourage either additional work effort or higher labor force participation. Either response would mean that the credit helps make work a more attractive alternative to welfare.<sup>3</sup>

Second, Congress intended the EITC to offset all or part of the payroll (Federal Insurance Contributions Act, or FICA) tax burden faced by lower-income workers.<sup>4</sup> Because the FICA tax contains no deductions or exemptions, it can prove especially burdensome for workers with earnings in the range of those qualifying for the EITC. Over time, increases in maximum credit amounts have more than offset the increases in FICA tax rates, making the current maximum EITC substantially greater than the combined employee-employer share of FICA tax paid on the same earnings.

Finally, because it phases out as income increases, the EITC plays a general role in increasing the progressivity of the federal income tax.

The EITC targets tax relief to low and moderate-income taxpayers, while its refundability feature provides cash rebates to the lowest-income workers.

The New York earned income tax credit serves similar purposes as well. However, because it is only a fraction of the federal amount (e.g., 7.5 percent in 1994), its impacts are less pronounced.

In addition, because New York does not impose any FICA-like payroll taxes, the New York EITC goes completely toward either reducing personal income tax burden, or providing cash rebates. In tax year 1994, 64 percent of credit claims constituted refunds, and 498,000 taxpayers (55 percent of all credit claimants) used the credit to both eliminate their tax liability and receive a cash refund.

Summary Statistics

Table 2 provides a general statistical overview of the 1994 EITC by taxpayers' place of residence. Some major statistical highlights include:

- A total of nearly 950,000 returns claimed an earned income tax credit. This represents about 12 percent of all taxable and nontaxable returns.
- Average credit amounts varied little by county, ranging from a low of $72 in Hamilton and Tompkin counties, to a high of $88 in Kings County and $87 in Bronx County. The average credit equaled $82.
- The average credit for nonresidents and part-year residents was approximately 60 percent of the average for residents, reflecting the fact that it is nonrefundable for nonresidents and partly refundable for part-year residents.

As shown earlier on Table 1, EITC eligibility and amounts vary by family size. Workers with children can earn considerably more income before the credit phases out. They also qualify for considerably higher credit rates. Table 3 below summarizes credit usage by family size for all taxpayers.

Error and Fraud Issues

As with nearly all personal income tax provisions, some taxpayers miscalculate their earned income tax credit. Some of these claimants simply make math errors, while others mistakenly claim the credit. The latter often results from the complexity of the credit.

However, and especially because the EITC is refundable, a large share of wrongly computed EITC claims consists of outright fraud. For example, the U.S. General Accounting Office (GAO) cited IRS data which estimates that, in the mid-1980s, taxpayers claimed and received between 30 and 40 percent more credit than they were legally entitled.<sup>5</sup> Most of this fraud resulted from claims of qualifying children who did not exist. A subsequent GAO study of returns filed in January 1994 found a considerably lower, but still significant, intentional error rate of 12 percent.<sup>6</sup>

In response to the GAO findings, the IRS announced, in June of 1995, implementation of a program to reduce both accidental and intentional noncompliance with the EITC. It consists mainly of matching qualifying children's social security numbers with those in the social security system database, and monitoring for duplicate claims for the same children. No data has yet been made available on the effectiveness of this initiative. A drawback of this verification procedure, however, is the delay that results in the processing and mailing of refund checks to taxpayers.

Given the IRS' recognition of, and attempts to reduce, high rates of fraud with the federal EITC, the Department was mindful of federal fraud issues when implementing the New York credit. To address these concerns, it instituted several procedures for detecting wrongful claims for credit during the processing function. This project resulted in the denial of wrongly claimed credits before the actual payment of cash refunds.

The first stage of the verification procedure consisted of checking for mathematical and other errors. The Department disallowed or reduced about 50,000 claims, saving $10 million.

The second, and more intensive, stage of verification consisted of four methods of information matching and analysis. They included:

- within ranges of numbers, ensuring that social security numbers (SSNs) provided for qualifying children match actual social security numbers,
- determining if two taxpayers (e.g., divorced or separated parents) claimed the same qualifying children,
- checking that earnings claimed toward the credit match wages reported on federal W-2 and Schedule C forms, and
- identifying first-time filers, the taxpayers most likely to either make legitimate errors or to file solely to fraudulently claim refundable credits.

This procedure resulted in the disallowance of about 26,000 claims, and the reduction of about 35,000 claims. The corresponding savings in falsely claimed earned income tax credit (EITC) amounted to about $6 million, or 7 percent of total EITC claimed. Of the four types of information matching analysis, the social security number match to detect nonexistent or duplicate claims for qualifying children proved to be the most effective. This is consistent with the GAO finding that false SSNs constitute the major source of EITC fraud.

As noted above, the SSN match used only ranges of numbers and not a direct match. This resulted from the fact Section 697 of the Tax Law does not currently permit the Department to furnish SSNs to the Social Security Administration for purposes of verifying them. Using IRS information obtained after the completion of the processing season, the Department estimates that its inability to perform a direct match resulted in the allowance of about $4 million in inappropriate claims.<sup>7</sup>

Statistical Tables Accompanying This Report

The statistical tables in this report provide information on the number of EITC claims, and their total and average dollar amounts. The information is displayed alphabetically by county. It is followed by summary data for New York City and its counties. The last section presents aggregate statistics for full-year non-residents, part-year residents moving out of New York and data for filers with missing addresses.

Within each county, EITC usage is shown by $4,000 ranges of earned income, and by number of qualifying children. EITC usage is shown by three filing statuses — single, married joint, and head of household. Qualifying widows(ers) are included in the married filing joint category, and married taxpayers filing separate returns are included in the head of household category. Disclosure limitations did not allow for displaying these two filing statuses separately. The average credit value displayed in the total column includes in its computation values of less than $500.

The information in the following tables comes from IT-215 forms filed through December 1995. It includes claims for EITC that passed the Department's two-stage verification procedure, and therefore were credited or paid to taxpayers. However, subsequent audit activity could result in the disallowance of a small percentage of the EITC claims reflected in this data. In addition, taxpayers who did not file returns through December 1995 may file a claim for EITC for the 1994 tax year until April 15, 1998.

Taxpayers must file a regular income tax return to claim the EITC, in addition to filing a form IT-215. This procedure differs from that for claiming the real property tax circuit breaker credit. Taxpayers may claim that credit using a "stand alone" form IT-214, without having to file a regular tax return. Appendix B contains a copy of form IT-215 and instructions.

Endnotes

1. The other states include Iowa, Maryland, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wisconsin.
2. Currently, about 85 percent of the federal EITC constitutes cash rebates to persons filing tax returns, but not owing tax.
3. However, the way in which the credit phases out significantly increases the marginal tax rate on workers in the phaseout range, thereby potentially reducing their incentive to earn additional wages.
4. For elaboration on the tax policy objectives of the earned income credit, see Joseph Pechman, Federal Tax Policy, Fifth Edition, (Washington, D.C., The Brookings Institution, 1987).
5. See U.S. General Accounting Office, Earned Income Tax Credit Design and Administration Could be Improved, September 1993.
6. U.S. Government Accounting Office, Tax Administration: Earned Income Credit— Data on Noncompliance and Illegal Alien Recipients, October 1994.
7. The size of the federal credit increases through 1996 and the State credit rate increases to 20 percent from 7.5 percent in 1994. This means that the amount of falsely claimed EITC resulting from the Department's inability to perform a direct match could approach $15 to $20 million by 1996.

Information and Instructions

You must have claimed the federal earned income credit in order to claim the New York State credit.

Filling in your claim form

Form IT-215 for 1994 has been designed to let us use the latest scanning and image-processing equipment. Rectangular boxes and white entry areas with short vertical "hashmarks" have been printed on the form to guide you in making your handwritten entries. This will enable our scanning equipment to more accurately read your return and let us process it more efficiently. Please spend a moment reviewing the method below for making your entries:

- Please print (using a blue or black ballpoint pen; no pencils, please) or type all "X" marks and money amounts in the boxes or spaces provided.
- Do not use dollar signs, commas, decimal points, dashes or any other punctuation marks or symbols. We have already printed the appropriate commas and the decimal points (with a vertical cents line divider) to assist you.
- Write your numerals like this:

- Carefully enter your money amounts so that the whole dollar amount starts immediately to the left of the decimal point/vertical cents line and the cents amount starts immediately to the right of the decimal point/vertical cents line.
- Make your money amount entries in the white spaces between the short vertical hashmarks, allowing one numeral for each area.

Example: If your entry for line 4 is $13,525.50, your money field entry should look like:

- Leave blank any spaces and boxes that do not apply to you.

Line Instructions

Line 1 — You can only file Form IT-215 (1) with your original 1994 New York State income tax return or (2) if you have already filed your original return. If you have previously filed your income tax return for this year, you must file one with this claim.

Line 2 — If you filed federal schedule EIC, be sure to list the name, social security number and year of birth for the same children you claimed on the federal schedule.

Line 3 — If you answered Yes, complete lines 4 through 7; the Tax Department will compute the credit for you. Part-year residents must also complete lines 16, 18 and 19. If you answered No, you must complete lines 4 through 11. Part-year residents must also complete lines 12 through 21.

Line 4 — This amount can be found on the appropriate line of the federal return you filed.

Lines 5, 6 and 7 — If you received a taxable scholarship or fellowship that was not reported on a federal Form W-2, or had nontaxable earned income or business income or loss, you must enter the amount from your Earned Income Credit Worksheet found in the instructions for your federal return. Line 7, Business income or loss, applies only to federal Form 1040 filers.

Line 7 — Be sure to check the appropriate box indicating if the line 7 amount is a profit or a loss. Do not use a minus sign or brackets to show a loss. If you have income or loss from more than one business, enter the Employer Identification Number (EIN) representing your primary business activity. If your primary business activity doesn't have an EIN, use your social security number.

If you owe the federal alternative minimum tax, disregard the preceding instruction and enter the amount of the federal earned income credit, before any reduction for the alternative minimum tax, from the EIC Worksheet in your federal instructions.

Line 9 — For 1994, the New York State earned income credit is 7½% (.075) of the federal earned income credit. The rate has already been filled in for you.
